U.S. soil agency to make another flood plan review

The U. S. Soil Conservation Service has agreed to make another review of Arlington Heights' Lake Arlington flood-control plan, giving village officials new hope for federal funding of the $10.4 million project.

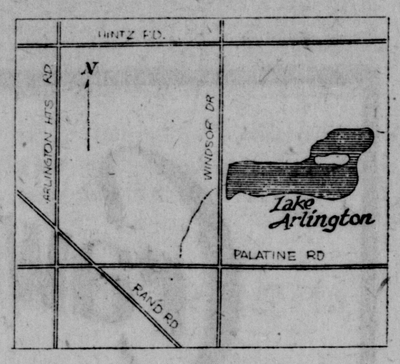
The agreement was reached Monday when Village Pres. James T. Ryan and Village Engineer Allen Sander met in Washington, D.C. with U.S. Rep. Philip Crane, R-12th, legislative assistants for U.S. Senators Charles Percy and Adlai Stevenson, and Joseph Haas, deputy administrator of the soil conservation division of the U.S. Dept. of Agriculture.

The meeting was organized because the Lake Arlington project is in danger of being left out of the Des Plaines River Watershed Plan which is considered a blueprint for state and federally funded flood-control work in the area.

THE SOIL Conservation Service has consistently opposed inclusion of Lake Arlington in the regional plan because of the high cost.

Instead of the lake, the Soil Conservation Service and the Army Corps of Engineers have proposed digging a diversionary overflow ditch along a southern branch of McDonald Creek to solve flooding problems in the area.

Village engineers say the ditch will not resolve upstream flooding problems.



Ryan said he is now more optimistic that the village will be included in the Des Plaines plan.

"They've agreed to take another look at the situation next week. I think they were impressed with the concept of the project and the fact that the state has already given us $500,000 to purchase the land," Ryan said.

THE VILLAGE received the state grant in August 1975. Appraisals of the property have been made but not yet approved by the Illinois Dept. of Conservation.

Ryan said the village stressed at Monday's meeting that the project will affect the entire area and could serve as a model project.

Proposed site for the 60-acre lake is 113 acres north of Palatine Road and east of Windsor Drive.

Extensive recreational uses also are planned for the site if the lake is built.

A final decision on whether the Soil Conservation Service will include Lake Arlington in the Des Plaines River Watershed Plan will be known in June when the final report is due, Ryan said.

Arafat warns Sixth Fleet will be sunk

BEIRUT, Lebanon (UPI) — Rival Palestinian leaders jointly warned Tuesday that should the American Sixth Fleet intervene in Lebanon it would be sunk as it was "sunk in Vietnam." They also warned against Syrian intervention.

However, Lebanese Socialists rejected a final cease-fire appeal aimed at averting a Syrian invasion.

Yasser Arafat, head of the Palestine Liberation Organization, embraced rival Palestinian leader George Habash and rebel Moslem army leader Ahmed Khatib and the three chanted, "unity, unity, unity."

"America says its fleet can arrive on these shores within 24 hours," Arafat told a surprise news conference. "But I say we are now within range of Sixth Fleet artillery."

"But they are welcome and we will sink them in Lebanon as they were sunk in Vietnam."

In Washington, the Pentagon said the U.S. naval force patroling the eastern Mediterranean about 24 hours sail off the coast of Lebanon had not been put on any unusual alert status.

If necessary the naval force could be called upon to rescue the more than 1,000 U.S. citizens still in Lebanon.

The seven-ship force consists of the assault helicopter carrier Guadalcanal, with a Marine detachment aboard; a conventional destroyer, a guided missile destroyer, and four support ships.

Arafat warned against intervention in Lebanon by anyone.

"All conspiracies will be broken on the rock of Palestinian-Lebanese unity," he said.

"These conspiracies are being smashed on the rock of the blood which is now being shed in (Christian strongholds of) Zghorta, Antourah and Kahhaleh," Arafat added.

As Arafat spoke, the Christian Phalangist radio reported that Israel was massing troops and armor along the Lebanese border and had set up checkpoints inside Lebanese territory.

No confirmation was available, but witnesses in the area said that Israeli reconnaissance planes were active there.

Citizens group approves golf course plans

Grading plans for the Arlington Heights Park District golf course proposed for the former Nike missile base property at New Wilke and Central roads were approved Tuesday night by the Citizens Action Committee Against Flooding.

The committee also approved plans from Stanley Consultants for the storm retention basin that will serve the Surrey Ridge area south of the golf course.

Estimated cost for the two projects, which comprise the Salt Creek Flood Control Project, is $1 million.

THE WORK WILL be funded by the flood control bonds sold by the village in December.

The plans will be reviewed by the Arlington Heights Village Board Monday night. If approved, bids will be let for the projects in late April or May and the work will be completed in the fall, Kenneth Jacobs of Stanley Consultants said.

The only item in the plans which drew much discussion from the committee was the chain-link fence pro-

Village awaits gravel parking lot

A commuter parking lot could be built on the site of the Hill-Behan Lumber Co., Arlington Heights Road and Northwest Highway, within six to nine months, James Holzwart, assistant administrator for Arlington Heights said Tuesday.

The gravel lot would serve riders using the nearby Chicago and North Western Ry. commuter station at Northwest Highway and Evergreen Avenue until a paved, 165-space lot is finished in two to three years.

The village has submitted names of three local real estate appraisers to the Illinois Dept. of Transportation as the first step toward acquisition of the land.

OF THE THREE appraisers, two will be certified by the department of transportation to set the value of the site, said Holzwart.

The price set by the appraisers will be the starting point for negotiations, Holzwart said. If the owners of the property and the village cannot come to an agreement, the land would be the subject of a condemnation suit by the village, Holzwart said.

A condemnation suit would prolong the acquistion procedure, he said, and would delay construction of the temporary parking lot.

Grants from the state and federal governments totaling $636,500 have been allocated for the development of the commuter parking lot. The village share toward the lot is $98,728.

THE BREAKDOWN OF THE grants is:

- $476,500 for acquistion of the site. The village share is $72,563.
- $25,000 to help relocate the displaced lumber yard. The village share is $3,800.
- $144,000 for demolition of existing buildings and construction of both the temporary and permanent parking facilities. The village share is $22,365.

In 1970, the lumber yard was appraised at $295,000. Holzwart declined to estimate how six years of inflation have affected the 1970 appraisal.

Construction of the paved 165-space lot would be deferred until the proposed railroad underpass at Arlington Heights Road and Northwest Highway is completed.

Although hearings on the underpass are not scheduled to begin until June, village officials are optimistic the project will be approved.

Because the underpass work would require a temporary relocation of the tracks onto part of the parking lot site, construction of the paved facility cannot begin until the railroad work is finished.

Arlington native Ford's No. 1 fan

She's editor for the President . . . at 23

by KAREN BLECHA

It was late one Sunday night in the Executive Office Building next to the White House when an unusual story came over the Associated Press news wire.

A reported quoted Jack Ford, the President's son, as saying he had smoked marijuana. Melanie Berney was in a predicament. As editor of the President's daily news summary, it's her job to sift through each day's headlines for the President's review. Should she include the item or not, she wondered? Yes, she decided.

"Luckily I did," recalled Mrs. Berney, 1970 graduate of Arlington High School recently home for a visit. "The President didn't know anything about his son's statement until he read the summary the next morning."

It's a long way from the peaceful, suburban life of Arington Heights to the hectic pace of Washington, D.C., bastion of power and glory, but Melanie Maloney Berney has made the transition. To top it off, at 23, she's probably one of the best informed people in the country.

HER JOB, WITH a staff of four, is to sift through some 70 newspapers from around the country, listen to news broadcasts, read magazines, check the wire services and then summarize what's happening every day in a 40-page report. The report is delivered to the President's bedroom door at 5:30 every morning. Reading it, and skimming through the New York Times and Washington Post, are the first things Gerald R. Ford does every day.

When he's not in Washington, the President gets an abbreviated copy of the report by cable wherever he is in the world.

The news summary includes top headlines of the day as well as comment. Ford is big on editorial cartoons — the nastier the better, says Mrs. Berney — so many of them are included.

The summary also goes to about 140 top administrators and Presidential advisers to give them an idea of what may go on that day and what questions they may be asked.

"IT GIVES THEM an idea of what the country feels and what the news media is saying," said Mrs. Berney. "The more editorials included, the better the President likes it. Whether they have anything to do with changes in policy, that I don't know."

The daily news summary, under the office of Press Sec. Ron Nessen, was started in the late 60s when Richard Nixon occupied the oval office.

While Ford wants as much critical news as possible in the summary, Mrs. Berney said it wasn't the same under Nixon.

"I've heard rumors that they censored the bad news from Nixon," she said. "They say he didn't read the papers much and got very upset when he heard bad news. At one time, and this is hearsay, they were putting in the baseball scores."

MORALE HAS improved around the White House 100 per cent since Ford took over, said Mrs. Berney, who started working in Washington in 1973 as a press aide for U.S. Rep. Philip Crane, (R-12th). After a five-month stint in the office of Georgia Congressman Larry McDonald, she moved over to the White House press staff last June.

"Things are a lot more honest now and very above board. Surprisingly so, considering politicians," she said. "There are some complaints that the staff got more pay and more travel

1 killed, 3 injured in auto-truck crash

One man was killed and three others injured Tuesday when the auto they were riding in collided head-on with a dump truck on Ill. Rte. 59, south of Algonquin Road in Barrington Hills. Dead was Charles Kessler, 45, of Stewardson, Ill., about 180 miles south of Chicago. He was dead on arrival at Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights. Injured were Melvin Okensorge, 41; Leon Vonderhude, 34, both of Stewardson and Dale Wirth, 51, of Strasburg, Ill.

They also were taken to Northwest where a hospital official reported Okensorge to be in serious condition with a head injury. Vonderhude and Wirth were described in fair condition with multiple injuries. Police in Barrington Hills said the auto collided at 3:40 p.m. with a truck driven by Gregory Bundgard, 23, of Huntley, Ill.. Bundgard was not injured. The auto, driven by Kessler was northbound on Rte. 59 and crossed into the southbound lanes, colliding with the oncoming truck, police said. The auto ended up on the west side of the road. Three of the victims were pinned inside the wreck and were freed by rescue workers, police said.

Workers ask arbitration

The union representing eight Des Plaines public works employes, suspended last December for refusing to work on garbage trucks, is seeking to settle the issue through arbitration. Gregory Koniecki, vice president of the local chapter of the Assn. of Independent Municipal Employes, said the union requested the arbitration after Mayor Herbert H. Behrel rejected the workers' grievance against the city. The arbitration, which is not binding, is provided for in the union's contract with the city, Koniecki said. The employes, members of the street department, were suspended for five days without pay Dec. 26, when they refused to substitute for absent sanitation employes. The grievances asks that the suspension be rescinded and that the workers be granted back pay.

New hope for flood plan funding

Arlington Heights officials say there may be new hope for federal funding of the proposed $10.4 million Lake Arlington flood control plan. The U.S. Soil Conservation which has opposed the project, agreed to review the plan after a meeting Monday in Washington D.C. of village officials, U. S. Rep. Philip Crane, R-12th, legislative assistants for U.S. Senators Charles Percy and Adlai Stevenson, and Joseph Haas, deputy administrator of the soil conservation division of the Dept. of Agriculture. The Soil Conservation Service has opposed inclusion of Lake Arlington in regional flood control plans because of the high cost. Village engineers said a ditch proposed by the federal engineers for flood control would not resolve flooding problems along McDonald Creek. The proposed site for the 60-acre lake is north of Palatine Road and east of Windsor Drive. A final decision is due in June.

Settlement may be close in Teamsters pact talks

by LEA TONKIN

Negotiators indicated high hopes Tuesday night that a settlement could be reached within 24 hours to head off a nationwide Teamsters' strike scheduled for midnight today.

The trucking industry is expected to drop its demand for a limited cost-of-living wage hike in the national contract talks with Teamsters, a source at the Arlington Park Hilton Hotel said Tuesday.

"They're still meeting with Labor Sec. (W.J.) Usery. They're getting closer together, but there's still health and welfare to be negotiated," he said.

The unofficial report indicates progress in the contract talks, as Usery and top aides met with Teamster and Trucking Employer Inc. (TEI) negotiators. If an agreement is hammered out as expected by the contract's expiration at midnight today, a nationwide walkout by some 400,000 truck drivers and warehousemen can be avoided.

MEANWHILE CONTRACT talks between Chicago area Teamster representatives and trucking industry officials continued in Chicago. Some 40,000 local cartage employes will be affected by the settlement. Teamsters Local 705 and other area locals are included in the negotiations, for which there is a March 31 deadline.

An unlimited cost-of-living clause is sought by the Teamsters in the national contract. The reported change in the trucking industry stance may be part of the new management offer reported Tuesday.

Union management said the trucking industry boosted its wage offer above the previous proposal of 20 per cent wage increases for 39 months. The new offer still fell "far short" of Teamster demands for a 30 per cent increase in 36 months.

The 20 per cent offer was rejected in weekend votes by Teamster members.

WILLIAM KLIBERG, solicitor for the Labor Dept., said his staff reviewed files for possible invocation of the Taft-Hartley Act against a strike.

Usery and James Searce, head of the national mediation and conciliation service, did not say the 80-day cooling off period would be enforced under Taft-Hartley. An injunction declaring a strike as a danger to national health and safety, and the renewal of talks in Washington are alternatives if no agreement is reched today.

The auto industry is among the first hit by a truckers' strike, said a Ford Motor Co. spokesman.

"Stop the trucks and we'll start closing our plants," he said. "Everything would be down within the week."

1 killed, 3 injured in auto-truck crash

One man was killed and three others injured Tuesday when the auto they were riding in collided head-on with a dump truck on Ill. Rte. 59, south of Algonquin Road in Barrington Hills. Dead was Charles Kessler, 45, of Stewardson, Ill., about 180 miles south of Chicago. He was dead on arrival at Northwest Community Hospital, Arlington Heights. Injured were Melvin Okensorge, 41; Leon Vonderhude, 34, both of Stewardson and Dale Wirth, 51, of Strasburg, Ill.

They also were taken to Northwest where a hospital official reported Okensorge to be in serious condition with a head injury. Vonderhude and Wirth were described in fair condition with multiple injuries. Police in Barrington Hills said the auto collided at 3:40 p.m. with a truck driven by Gregory Bundgard, 23, of Huntley, Ill.. Bundgard was not injured. The auto, driven by Kessler was northbound on Rte. 59 and crossed into the southbound lanes, colliding with the oncoming truck, police said. The auto ended up on the west side of the road. Three of the victims were pinned inside the wreck and were freed by rescue workers, police said.

Workers ask arbitration

The union representing eight Des Plaines public works employes, suspended last December for refusing to work on garbage trucks, is seeking to settle the issue through arbitration. Gregory Koniecki, vice president of the local chapter of the Assn. of Independent Municipal Employes, said the union requested the arbitration after Mayor Herbert H. Behrel rejected the workers' grievance against the city. The arbitration, which is not binding, is provided for in the union's contract with the city, Koniecki said. The employes, members of the street department, were suspended for five days without pay Dec. 26, when they refused to substitute for absent sanitation employes. The grievances asks that the suspension be rescinded and that the workers be granted back pay.

New hope for flood plan funding

Arlington Heights officials say there may be new hope for federal funding of the proposed $10.4 million Lake Arlington flood control plan. The U.S. Soil Conservation which has opposed the project, agreed to review the plan after a meeting Monday in Washington D.C. of village officials, U. S. Rep. Philip Crane, R-12th, legislative assistants for U.S. Senators Charles Percy and Adlai Stevenson, and Joseph Haas, deputy administrator of the soil conservation division of the Dept. of Agriculture. The Soil Conservation Service has opposed inclusion of Lake Arlington in regional flood control plans because of the high cost. Village engineers said a ditch proposed by the federal engineers for flood control would not resolve flooding problems along McDonald Creek. The proposed site for the 60-acre lake is north of Palatine Road and east of Windsor Drive. A final decision is due in June.

Settlement may be close in Teamsters pact talks

by LEA TONKIN

Negotiators indicated high hopes Tuesday night that a settlement could be reached within 24 hours to head off a nationwide Teamsters' strike scheduled for midnight today.

The trucking industry is expected to drop its demand for a limited cost-of-living wage hike in the national contract talks with Teamsters, a source at the Arlington Park Hilton Hotel said Tuesday.

"They're still meeting with Labor Sec. (W.J.) Usery. They're getting closer together, but there's still health and welfare to be negotiated," he said.

The unofficial report indicates progress in the contract talks, as Usery and top aides met with Teamster and Trucking Employer Inc. (TEI) negotiators. If an agreement is hammered out as expected by the contract's expiration at midnight today, a nationwide walkout by some 400,000 truck drivers and warehousemen can be avoided.

MEANWHILE CONTRACT talks between Chicago area Teamster representatives and trucking industry officials continued in Chicago. Some 40,000 local cartage employes will be affected by the settlement. Teamsters Local 705 and other area locals are included in the negotiations, for which there is a March 31 deadline.

An unlimited cost-of-living clause is sought by the Teamsters in the national contract. The reported change in the trucking industry stance may be part of the new management offer reported Tuesday.

Union management said the trucking industry boosted its wage offer above the previous proposal of 20 per cent wage increases for 39 months. The new offer still fell "far short" of Teamster demands for a 30 per cent increase in 36 months.

The 20 per cent offer was rejected in weekend votes by Teamster members.

WILLIAM KLIBERG, solicitor for the Labor Dept., said his staff reviewed files for possible invocation of the Taft-Hartley Act against a strike.

Usery and James Searce, head of the national mediation and conciliation service, did not say the 80-day cooling off period would be enforced under Taft-Hartley. An injunction declaring a strike as a danger to national health and safety, and the renewal of talks in Washington are alternatives if no agreement is reched today.

The auto industry is among the first hit by a truckers' strike, said a Ford Motor Co. spokesman.

"Stop the trucks and we'll start closing our plants," he said. "Everything would be down within the week."

an eleventh hour appeal to Socialist leader Kamal Jumblatt to agree to a one-week cease-fire to allow parliament to elect a new president to replace President Suleiman Franjieh, who has refused to resign.

Diplomatic sources said Syria was ready to intervene militarily to halt the fighting which has killed more than 15,000 and wounded nearly 33,000 in the 11 months of civil war.

Jumblatt, whose refusal to agree to a Syrian-negotiated peace fueled the latest round of fighting, admitted "there have been very great pressures" on the leftists and Palestinians for a truce but said, "Our stand is clear."

Another leftist leader, Ibrahim Koleilat declared more bluntly, "There will be no cease-fire. We are continuing the fight."

Moslems and Christians battled across the capital and the country Tuesday. Fires burned out of control at shops, banks and factories in Beirut and hundreds of corpses lay on the streets and sidewalks, rotting.

One Beirut source said the escalation in the fighting and the refusal of Jumblatt to accept a Syrian-drafted peace settlement have "pushed the Syrians close to resorting to military action."

Brig. Gen. Aziz Ahdas, who led a coup earlier this month also demanding Franjieh's resignation, joined the appeal for a truce in a radio broadcast.

"Stop the fighting and this barbaric shelling which is only spreading death and destruction," he said. "I appeal to all military and civilian supporters of my movement to immediately contribute to a cease-fire."

Political sources said Palestinian leader Yasser Arafat urged Jumblatt to freeze the fighting for one week to enable parliament to meet and elect a new president.

This would be done by the House approving a draft amendment to the constitution allowing for presidential elections six months prior to the expiration date for the incumbent head of state.

Franjieh's term expires in September. Sources said Franjieh, despite protestations to the contrary, would resign when a new president was elected as part of a deal with Syria.

As Syrians, Palestinians and even rebel Moslems tried to convince Jumblatt to halt his army attacks for a week, conditions worsened in Lebanon with the failure of communications systems.

Lebanese situation put before U.N.

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — Secretary General Kurt Waldheim put the Lebanese civil war before the Security Council Tuesday.

Using powers authorized by Article 99 of the U.N. Charter, Waldheim said the magnitude of the Lebanese situation and the threat that it might spread into a wider conflict led him to draw the Council's attention "to the gravity of the situation."

There was no indication whether the Council would meet soon on the situation.

The last time the Article 99 authority was invoked was be the late Secretary General Dag Hammarskjold in the Congo crisis in 1960.

In Washington, meantime, President Ford and Jordans' King Hussein called for a cease-fire in Lebanon centered on a "basic political solution" providing for the security of all Lebanese factions and the country's territorial integrity.

Ford and Hussein met for 75 minutes under heavy security precautions. A White House statement said they devoted most of their discussion to the situation in Lebanon.

The statement said: "Both leaders agreed on the need for a cease-fire and a basic political solution that gives adequate opportunity and security to all Lebanese groups and maintains the independence, territorial integrity and national unity of the country."

Howard Callaway resigns as Ford's campaign chief

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Howard "Bo" Callaway resigned as President Ford's campaign manager Tuesday in the face of charges he misused public office and a saddened Ford named political counsellor Rogers Morton to succeed "my friend Bo."

Ford called an unusually large group of reporters and cameramen into the Oval Office to announce the decision, looked Callaway in the eye and said, "I am absolutely sure Bo will be exonerated" of allegations he used his official influence in a private business venture.

"I know very deeply that my friend Bo Callaway is an absolutely honest man," Ford said.

Shaking Callaway's hand and then Morton's, the President said "congratulations" to the new campaign chairman, and laughed.

"We'll do the best we can," said Morton, Ford's White House political adviser and a former Republican National chairman.

Callaway, temporarily relieved of duty when the allegations of the misuse of office became public March 13, told reporters later that "unfair" news coverage made it "as certain as Greek Tragedy" he would have to resign pending completion of investigations.

But he denied he was under White House pressure to quit.

Both the Justice Department and Congress are looking into charges that Callaway, as Army Secretary and as Ford's campaign manager in 1975, tried to pressure the U.S. Forest Service into approving the expansion of his Crested Butte ski resort onto national forest land in Colorado.

Callaway has said repeatedly he is innocent of any wrongdoing and, in his resignation letter to Ford, said he had hoped to remain in charge of the presidential campaign.

"However, in view of recent publicity, I do not feel it is in the interest of the campaign committee, for me to continue," he wrote.

ISRAELI TROOPS DRAG away Arab demonstrator during a rock-and-firebomb throwing outburst in Nazareth. Six Arabs were killed, scores wounded and more than 300 arrested in area protests.

Israeli troops fire on Arab mobs, 6 killed

DEIR HANA, Israel (UPI) — Israeli security forces Tuesday fired on mobs of rock-and-firebomb throwing Arabs in the worst outbreak of violence within Israel since its independence in 1948.

The Arabs were protesting government plans to requisition lands in the Galilee for Jewish settlement.

Authorities said 6 Arabs were killed, scores wounded and more than 300 arrested as hundreds of police, soldiers and border patrolmen struggled to quell the protests.

A police spokesman said 69 persons were wounded, including 38 policemen and border patrol troops.

Demonstrators threw rocks, flaming torches and Molotov cocktails at security forces. They set roadblocks of flaming tires in Arab villages in northern Israel and the "triangle" region near Tel Aviv.

The violence erupted during an "Arab Lands Day" strike sponsored by the Israeli Communist party and other groups.

A focus of the strike was Nazareth, where Deputy Mayor Manaim Jarjura blamed Israeli authorities for provoking the violence by sending in heavy concentrations of battle-equipped soldiers and police.

Fresh tornados claimed lives in Michigan Tuesday. As many as four tornados hopscotched across northeastern lower Michigan. Two deaths were reported in Ogemaw County. Twelve persons were seriously injured, four of them in a side-by-side car collision on an interstate highway that police blamed on high winds. The Michigan deaths raised to 11 those killed in a two-day tornado outbreak ranging from the deep south to the upper midwest.

Proved U.S. oil reserves decline

The petroleum industry reported Tuesday it found far less new domestic oil and natural gas in 1975 than it pumped out of the ground, causing America's proved reserves to decline for the fifth straight year. Industry reports on domestic activity in 1975 also disclosed oil production hit its lowest level since 1966 despite increased drilling, driving the United States to import a record 40 per cent of its oil, and gas production was the lowest since 1968.

Fishing jurisdiction bill to Ford

The House voted overwhelmingly Tuesday to send President Ford a compromise bill extending U.S. fisheries jurisdiction to 200 miles in a move to stop overfishing by foreign fleets. The vote was 346 to 52. The legislation, expected to be signed by Ford despite opposition by the State Department and the Pentagon, will require foreign fishermen to get U.S. permits to fish within the 200-mile conservation zone beginning March 1, 1977.

In other legislative action:

The Senate Budget Committee voted to give President Ford nearly all he asked for in defense spending next year. The panel approved 1977 defense budget authority of $113 billion, only $300 million less than Ford's revised figure .

'Sudden death' ballot needed in Britain

Foreign Secretary James Callaghan, a big, genial middle-of-the-roader known to Britons as "Sunny Jim," won the second ballot Tuesday in the Labor party race for prime minister. He appeared set to become the country's next leader. Callaghan racked up 141 votes against 133 for Employment Secretary Michael Foot. A third and final "sudden death" ballot between Callaghan and Foot will be necessary April 5 with Callaghan odds-on favorite to win.

Flu inoculation plan passes test

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford's $135 million plan for a nationwide inoculation program to prevent a swine flu epidemic this fall and winter passed its first congressional test without opposition Tuesday.

Members of a House appropriations subcommittee, despite expressing some reservations about the "unprecedented effort," overwhelmingly backed the proposal.

After discussing the plan for several hours with administration health officials, the subcommittee voted without dissent to approve Ford's request and referred it to the full House Appropriations Committee, which may act on it this week, a subcommittee spokesman said.

Dr. Theodore Cooper, assistant secretary for health with the Health, Education and Welfare Department, said the project "is a bold one" and that vaccinations should begin no later than the first of September.

Rep. Edward J. Patten, D-N.J., said the vaccinations would cost New Jersey more than $3 million while the Ford plan provides only $400,000 for the state.

The government's Center for Disease Control will hold a meeting Friday for state health officers and state medical society representatives in Atlanta, Ga., to discuss such problems as those raised by New Jersey, Cooper said.

Subcommittee Chairman Daniel J. Flood, D-Pa., asked for assurances that drug companies won't take advantage of the opportunity to enrich corporate coffers. "You can see the potential for a ripoff here, the way you are dramatizing it," said Flood.

It was the administration's first testimony on behalf of Ford's request last week for nationwide immunization against a possible swine influenza virus similar to the one implicated in a worldwide outbreak in 1918-1919.

Cooper said the program calls for full participation of private medicine, voluntary organizations, all levels of government and virtually every citizen in the country.

Debt collector tells of cruel tricks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A witness disguised in a ski mask told Congress Tuesday some debt collection agencies use physical threats and cruel trickery to force payment of bills.

The mystery witness at a House hearing said he had been a professional debt collector himself and recounted hair-raising anecdotes of his techniques, including the time he asked a woman by telephone what her shoe size was.

When she responded, he told her: "We're going to deliver you a pair of cement shoes your size."

Another time, he said, he drew another woman out of her home by impersonating a police officer and phoning to say her son had lost both legs in an auto accident. The woman, in tears, walked into the trap at the hospital door.

"She thanked us that her son was still alive and paid the debt," he said.

Saying he feared retaliation from former associates in these collection capers, the heavyset witness appeared disguised in a maroon ski mask, sunglasses, an aquamarine suit and tie, a glittering pinky ring and a pseudonym — "James Clark."

"Clark" said he had served as both employe and manager of collection agencies in a city he declined to identify.

He testified before a House Banking subcommittee which is considering legislation that would bring the debt collection industry under federal regulation and provide fines and jail terms for illegal collection activities.

Subcommittee Chairman Frank Annunzio, D-Ill., said bad debts totaled $3 billion nationally last year, making collection a major industry in need of federal regulation.

But Rep. Chalmers Wylie, R-Ohio, said independent agencies handle only about 1 per cent of debt collections, with the rest managed by banks or "in-house" collectors.

He said some regulation might be needed, but, "if we act on the basis of overdramatization we run the risk of passing bad legislation."

In his testimony, "Clark" said he collected debts ranging from large industrial accounts to record and book club bills which dometimes did not qualify as legal debts.

He said that threats of violence were never actually carried out.

He said other pressure techniques included "beating" debtors psychologicly by phoning them every five minutes through the day and telling terminally ill persons their heirs "would go through hell if they didn't pay us in full."

Subcommittee Chairman Daniel J. Flood, D-Pa., asked for assurances that drug companies won't take advantage of the opportunity to enrich corporate coffers. "You can see the potential for a ripoff here, the way you are dramatizing it," said Flood.

It was the administration's first testimony on behalf of Ford's request last week for nationwide immunization against a possible swine influenza virus similar to the one implicated in a worldwide outbreak in 1918-1919.

Cooper said the program calls for full participation of private medicine, voluntary organizations, all levels of government and virtually every citizen in the country.

Debt collector tells of cruel tricks

WASHINGTON (UPI) — A witness disguised in a ski mask told Congress Tuesday some debt collection agencies use physical threats and cruel trickery to force payment of bills.

The mystery witness at a House hearing said he had been a professional debt collector himself and recounted hair-raising anecdotes of his techniques, including the time he asked a woman by telephone what her shoe size was.

When she responded, he told her: "We're going to deliver you a pair of cement shoes your size."

Another time, he said, he drew another woman out of her home by impersonating a police officer and phoning to say her son had lost both legs in an auto accident. The woman, in tears, walked into the trap at the hospital door.

"She thanked us that her son was still alive and paid the debt," he said.

Saying he feared retaliation from former associates in these collection capers, the heavyset witness appeared disguised in a maroon ski mask, sunglasses, an aquamarine suit and tie, a glittering pinky ring and a pseudonym — "James Clark."

"Clark" said he had served as both employe and manager of collection agencies in a city he declined to identify.

He testified before a House Banking subcommittee which is considering legislation that would bring the debt collection industry under federal regulation and provide fines and jail terms for illegal collection activities.

Subcommittee Chairman Frank Annunzio, D-Ill., said bad debts totaled $3 billion nationally last year, making collection a major industry in need of federal regulation.

But Rep. Chalmers Wylie, R-Ohio, said independent agencies handle only about 1 per cent of debt collections, with the rest managed by banks or "in-house" collectors.

He said some regulation might be needed, but, "if we act on the basis of overdramatization we run the risk of passing bad legislation."

In his testimony, "Clark" said he collected debts ranging from large industrial accounts to record and book club bills which dometimes did not qualify as legal debts.

He said that threats of violence were never actually carried out.

He said other pressure techniques included "beating" debtors psychologiclly by phoning them every five minutes through the day and telling terminally ill persons their heirs "would go through hell if they didn't pay us in full."

Twisters claim lives in Michigan

Fresh tornados claimed lives in Michigan Tuesday. As many as four tornados hopscotched across northeastern lower Michigan. Two deaths were reported in Ogemaw County. Twelve persons were seriously injured, four of them in a side-by-side car collision on an interstate highway that police blamed on high winds. The Michigan deaths raised to 11 those killed in a two-day tornado outbreak ranging from the deep south to the upper midwest.

Proved U.S. oil reserves decline

The petroleum industry reported Tuesday it found far less new domestic oil and natural gas in 1975 than it pumped out of the ground, causing America's proved reserves to decline for the fifth straight year. Industry reports on domestic activity in 1975 also disclosed oil production hit its lowest level since 1966 despite increased drilling, driving the United States to import a record 40 per cent of its oil, and gas production was the lowest since 1968.

Fishing jurisdiction bill to Ford

The House voted overwhelmingly Tuesday to send President Ford a compromise bill extending U.S. fisheries jurisdiction to 200 miles in a move to stop overfishing by foreign fleets. The vote was 346 to 52. The legislation, expected to be signed by Ford despite opposition by the State Department and the Pentagon, will require foreign fishermen to get U.S. permits to fish within the 200-mile conservation zone beginning March 1, 1977.

In other legislative action:

The Senate Budget Committee voted to give President Ford nearly all he asked for in defense spending next year. The panel approved 1977 defense budget authority of $113 billion, only $300 million less than Ford's revised figure .

Brinks truck hijacked in Montreal

A gang of "highly professional" thieves Tuesday used an antiaircraft gun to hijack a Brinks armored car from the heart of Montreal's financial district and made off with between $2 million and $3 million in cash. Police are hunting five suspects.

'Sudden death' ballot needed in Britain

Foreign Secretary James Callaghan, a big, genial middle-of-the-roader known to Britons as "Sunny Jim," won the second ballot Tuesday in the Labor party race for prime minister. He appeared set to become the country's next leader. Callaghan racked up 141 votes against 133 for Employment Secretary Michael Foot. A third and final "sudden death" ballot between Callaghan and Foot will be necessary April 5 with Callaghan odds-on favorite to win.

Work on new town hall slated to begin Monday

Excavating for the new Wheeling town hall will begin Monday with official groundbreaking ceremonies scheduled for 4 p.m. April 13 at the site, 1620 N. Arlington Heights Rd.

Ben Trapani of Mount Prospect, general contractor, told the township board of auditors Tuesday that excavating needed to be done "as soon as possible before the rainy season starts." Arlington Heights granted the building permit last week.

Trapani said Nov. 1 remains his "target date" for occupancy despite some delays caused by adding an elevator to plans for the two-story building.

AN ELEVATOR for handicapped persons is required in all public buildings financed with federal funds, according to an Illinois law passed last October. The $650,000 town hall is to be financed through federal revenue-sharing funds and $140,000 from the sale of the present town hall at 1818 E. Northwest Hwy.

Trapani said "seven or eight" subcontractors may be forced to adjust their winning low bids to reflect added material and labor costs prompted by the elevator. Those added costs from bidders for the electrical, dry wall, concrete, carpentry, steel and painting contracts may total from $5,000 to $10,000, Trapani said. The elevator will cost between $16,000 and $20,000, he said.

He plans to discuss the elevator's impact with each subcontractor and "try to persuade them" to keep their bids as submitted or as low as possible. Township attorney Dick Cowen said some contracts may have to be reopened to general bidding if the additional material and work prompted by the elevator represents "a substantial change" in the amount of the contract.

Trapani said he would bring revised contract estimates to the board at its April 20 meeting.

"This (the elevator) will create a little hassle," Trapani said. "It will take more coordinating but it won't be a major problem."

THE ENTIRE building will lose from 75 to 80 square feet of space because of the elevator, said Jim Ray, the building's architect. Each of the three agencies to be housed on the second floor will lose from 12 to 30 square feet. The first-floor conference room will lose about 30 square feet, the kitchen will be slightly smaller and there will be a little less storage space in the basement, Ray said.

In addition to the elevator, the building will have two stairways. The building also will have a pay phone within easy reach of a person in a wheelchair.

'Pocket' students develop own goals

by KATHERINE BOYCE

There are two high schools at 502 W. Euclid Ave. in Arlington Heights.

Arlington High School has been around since the creation of High School Dist. 214 but Pocket School was formed just last fall, when it set up shop in Room 223 in the Arlington building.

Pocket School is an alternative education program designed to meet the individual needs of students. The students study independently in a variety of activities developed in cooperation with one of the program's advisors.

A TOTAL OF 25 juniors and seniors are enrolled in Pocket School this semester. One who is interested in law is taking a law course at Harper College and working for a district attorney in Chicago. Another students is developing his interest in music by taking lessons in bass guitar at the Chicago Conservatory of Music.

Other students are working in child care, aiding in physical therapy at a nursing home, working in restaurant management at a local hotel and taking professional dancing lessons.

Students earn high school credit for all of these activities through a contract written between the student and his advisor. The student does not receive a letter grade, except upon request, but is given a personal evaluation of his performance by his advisor, teachers and work supervisors.

Students who disagree with the evaluation may write a rebuttal, and the entire document becomes part of the student's high school transcript.

ONE SEMESTER'S credit is received for completing 100 hours of work. Each student is required to earn the equivalent of four credits per year plus physical education.

STUDENTS MAY take one course per semester in the regular school program and are responsible for earning credits in all courses which are required for graduation from Arlington High School.

Students benefit from Pocket School by developing self direction in setting their own goals, evaluating themselves, establishing values and reaching a balance between the freedom to learn as they choose and the responsibility for receiving a good education.

The Pocket School gives students "a chance to try out a vocational interest before investing in four or eight years of college," said Maurice Webster, advisor and program director. For some it confirms those career interests and for others it opens up "serious doubts," Webster said.

CINDY COX attended a lecture class at Harper as part of Pocket School "I went there just to see what college was like," she said.

Cindy had an interest in accounting, but discarded the subject after her investigation of the field. Pocket School has helped her in "finding out what I want to do after high school," she said, and it "helped me with personal growth."

Last semester in Pocket School, Cindy worked as a ticket clerk at O'Hare International Airport for Eastern Airlines. She now thinks she will enter some facet of the airline business after graduation.

Pocket School also develops a rapport between student and teacher. "The student comes out in the teacher's mind as a human being," said Webster. "I know more about the kids in this program than in the regular program."

The students also agree they benefit more from a teacher's knowledge and direction when they work with him on a one-to-one basis.

THE POCKET SCHOOL is a more humanistic approach to education, giving a student the opportunity to expand individual interests which fit his personality.

"What is education?" Webster asked. "Is it processing an individual for a mass market?" he asked, or is its purpose "to fulfill a person as a human being?"

If the second philosophy is more accurate, then a student may not get the full benefit from a departmentalized school program, he said. To "fragment" a student into separate periods and subjects per day can be "dehumanizing," Webster said.

Panel to review upkeep of shop center tonight

Maintenance problems at the Surrey Ridge Shopping Center will be reviewed tonight by the Arlington Heights Village Board's public health and safety committee.

The village board last month postponed making a decision on a request from Fotomat Corp. to install a drive-in store in the shopping center's parking lot because of the complaints.

The maintenance problems include holes in the parking lot, garbage not being stored in appropriate containers, litter along a rear fence and shopping carts in a rear ditch, said George Weinand, village health director.

Winand said they are "chronic spring problems."

Representatives from the shopping center's management firm and S. S. Kresge Co. will attend the meeting which begins at 8 p.m. at the municipal building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd.

Test of siren spurs tornado scare

Palatine's Civil Defense warning sirens will be equipped with an all-clear signal this fall, but no additional sirens will be installed in the village.

Upgrading of the sirens to include the all-clear signal was approved by the village board this week as part of the Civil Defense Department's $13,250 budget. The addition of the all-clear signal to the village sirens will cost about $1,250.

The sirens currently have two signals, one for a national air raid and one for emergency weather warnings.

EDWIN TAZELAAR, civil defense director, said work on the sirens will not be done until fall because the sirens cannot be taken down during the tornado season, which runs through spring and summer.

The village has five sirens located in different areas. Civil Defense officials had requested approval to purchase a sixth siren to install in the Countryside area in the northwest corner of the village. The request was turned down by the administration, however, because it said sirens in the Village of Inverness provide warning to western Palatine.

Village Mgr. Anton H. Harwig said there is a problem with the number of sirens in the area. He said there is no coordination between villages when sirens are sounded. Consequently, Arlington Heights may sound a warning which can be heard by Palatine residents, causing a flood of phone calls to local police if Palatine does not also sound its siren.

Harwig said what is needed is better coordination between villages rather than more sirens in the area.

OFFICIALS ALSO AGREED the village should do more to inform residents what the meaning is of each siren blast. Village Pres. Wendell E. Jones said residents often complain that they do not know what the siren blasts mean.

A sustained blast signifies a tornado warning. A wailing tone is a warning for residents to take emergency cover. The tornado siren is sounded only when the National Weather Service issues a warning or if a tornado is reported in the area The emergency cover signal is sounded only for an air raid and can be set off only through authorization from federal officials.

Wandalyn Rice

Herald writer wins Mott kudo

Herald government writer Wandalyn Rice Tuesday won a special citation in the 1975 Charles Stewart Mott Awards Competition sponsored by the Education Writers Assn.

The award in the feature writing category was for "Changing Attitudes to Open Schools," a story Rice wrote while an education writer for the Herald. The award was one of 13 special citations granted in all categories of the competition. A total of 35 winners were named in the nation-wide contest out of 356 entries.

Rice joined the Herald in 1970 after graduating from the University of Oregon. She was an education writer, education editor and education specialist from 1972 until November, when she was named government reporter.

Wandalyn Rice

Rice's award marks the first time a Herald reporter has been honored in the Mott competition, one of the most prestigious awards given for education writing.

Group seeks signatures to force ethics reforms

Members of the Coalition for Political Honesty will try to gather 50,000 signatures from throughout the state Saturday on a petition to put proposed Constitutional amendments on government ethics on the November ballot.

Patrick Quinn, secretary-treasurer of the coalition, said volunteers will be gathering signatures in the Northwest suburbs at local shopping centers and other areas where people gather.

"People who have been wanting to sign the petitions should be able to do so by going about their normal activities," Quinn said.

The coalition has 275,000 of the 375,000 signatures it needs by May 1 to put the proposed amendments on the ballot. The amendments would stop legislators from drawing their annual salaries in advance, outlaw "double dipping" — the practice of holding two governmental jobs simultaneously — and strengthen prohibitions against conflict of interest.

Short judicial ballot asked

A Republican candidate for Cook County Circuit Court judge has proposed that county judges be elected from districts in the city and the suburbs to avoid the long judicial ballots voters faced in the March 16 primary.

James J. Heyda, one of 15 Republican candidates for newly created circuit court judgships, said judges could be elected from the same districts as state senators or from specially created judicial election districts.

In addition, Heyda said the election should be changed to a nonpartisan one in which candidates run without party labels. The result, he said, would be to shorten the judicial ballots and reduce partisan influence in the elections while maintaining an elected judiciary which is accountable to the voters.

5 Carter delegates elected

The Herald story Tuesday saying four candidates pledged to former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter and the Schaumburg Township Democratic committeeman were elected delegates to the Democratic National Convention from the 12th Congressional District was in error.

Actually, all five Carter delegates were elected: State Rep. Daniel Pierce, D-Highland Park, Lucille "Jackie" Gallagher, Robert Johnston, Steven Maddock and Gwen Martin.

The error resulted from a misunderstanding in which the Cook County Clerk's office supplied The Herald the vote total for Lawrence E. Johnson, an uncommitted delegate candidate, instead of Johnston's total. Johnston defeated Schaumburg Township Committeeman John Morrissey, 6,230 to 5,742 votes.

League backs gun control

The Illinois League of Women Voters has called for legislation to ban the manufacture, sale and importation of handguns and for regulation of the sale of ammunition.

Political briefs

Donna Schiller, president of the state league, said the league will support both federal and state legislation restricting handguns. The position was reached after a six-month study by 8,500 league members throughout the state.

Hatch Act changes asked

U. S. Rep. Edward Derwinski, R-4th, has attacked proposed legislation to remove Hatch Act restrictions from all federal employes except those working for the CIA, Internal Revenue Service and Justice Dept.

Derwinski said he will lead a floor fight against the legislation, which is now in the form of a House-Senate conference report. He said the conference report has transformed a "patently mischievous piece of legislation into a monumental monstrosity."

The Hatch Act prohibits federal employes from taking active part in partisan political activity. The proposed legislation would allow voluntary political activity on the part of federal civil servants.

Derwinski said he opposes the change because "there is no conceivable way of preserving an impartial federal service if it is to be ravaged at will by vitually unrestricted partisan political activity."

Group seeks signatures to force ethics reforms

Members of the Coalition for Political Honesty will try to gather 50,000 signatures from throughout the state Saturday on a petition to put proposed Constitutional amendments on government ethics on the November ballot.

Patrick Quinn, secretary-treasurer of the coalition, said volunteers will be gathering signatures in the Northwest suburbs at local shopping centers and other areas where people gather.

"People who have been wanting to sign the petitions should be able to do so by going about their normal activities," Quinn said.

The coalition has 275,000 of the 375,000 signatures it needs by May 1 to put the proposed amendments on the ballot. The amendments would stop legislators from drawing their annual salaries in advance, outlaw "double dipping" — the practice of holding two governmental jobs simultaneously — and strengthen prohibitions against conflict of interest.

Short judicial ballot asked

A Republican candidate for Cook County Circuit Court judge has proposed that county judges be elected from districts in the city and the suburbs to avoid the long judicial ballots voters faced in the March 16 primary.

James J. Heyda, one of 15 Republican candidates for newly created circuit court judgships, said judges could be elected from the same districts as state senators or from specially created judicial election districts.

In addition, Heyda said the election should be changed to a nonpartisan one in which candidates run without party labels. The result, he said, would be to shorten the judicial ballots and reduce partisan influence in the elections while maintaining an elected judiciary which is accountable to the voters.

5 Carter delegates elected

The Herald story Tuesday saying four candidates pledged to former Georgia Gov. Jimmy Carter and the Schaumburg Township Democratic committeeman were elected delegates to the Democratic National Convention from the 12th Congressional District was in error.

Actually, all five Carter delegates were elected: State Rep. Daniel Pierce, D-Highland Park, Lucille "Jackie" Gallagher, Robert Johnston, Steven Maddock and Gwen Martin.

The error resulted from a misunderstanding in which the Cook County Clerk's office supplied The Herald the vote total for Lawrence E. Johnson, an uncommitted delegate candidate, instead of Johnston's total. Johnston defeated Schaumburg Township Committeeman John Morrissey, 6,230 to 5,742 votes.

League backs gun control

The Illinois League of Women Voters has called for legislation to ban the manufacture, sale and importation of handguns and for regulation of the sale of ammunition.

Political briefs

Donna Schiller, president of the state league, said the league will support both federal and state legislation restricting handguns. The position was reached after a six-month study by 8,500 league members throughout the state.

Hatch Act changes asked

U. S. Rep. Edward Derwinski, R-4th, has attacked proposed legislation to remove Hatch Act restrictions from all federal employes except those working for the CIA, Internal Revenue Service and Justice Dept.

Derwinski said he will lead a floor fight against the legislation, which is now in the form of a House-Senate conference report. He said the conference report has transformed a "patently mischievous piece of legislation into a monumental monstrosity."

The Hatch Act prohibits federal employes from taking active part in partisan political activity. The proposed legislation would allow voluntary political activity on the part of federal civil servants.

Derwinski said he opposes the change because "there is no conceivable way of preserving an impartial federal service if it is to be ravaged at will by vitually unrestricted partisan political activity."

The way we see it

Board invited criticism of actions in Dist. 62 . . .

The Des Plaines Dist. 62 Board of Education is under fire from parents and teachers over $700,000 in budget cuts, and we believe the board has invited the criticism it is receiving.

More than 500 parents and teachers packed the March 15 board meeting to question why the board was firing 20 elementary school teachers and all district nurses. The board had approved the cuts two weeks before, and the crowd came out to protest before the board implemented the decision by laying off all first- and second-year teachers and the four nurses.

But despite an unprecedented turnout of citizens and the controversy evoked by the cutbacks, the board chose to adhere strictly to its meeting agenda, refusing to allow parents to speak until well after the vote was taken and the staff members released.

The only opinion the board heard before its vote came from a representative of the teachers union — and that only after advance approval was given by board and administration to allow the statement to be read early in the evening.

While other districts in the area are soliciting opinions from teachers and parents through questionnaires, public hearings and committee meetings, Dist. 62 continued in its well-known pattern of seeking only the advice of the administration and acting at once.

Parents, understandably, reacted strongly to being ignored by their elected representatives. As a result, a petition drive is now under way in an attempt to influence the board to reconsider the cuts and hear out the people. The petitions will be presented to the board at its April 5 meeting.

Dist. 62 board members now face an important choice. They can allow the people to speak — regardless of whether it upsets Roberts Rules of Order. Or they can continue their tradition and hope everyone will just go away.

We will not debate whether the cuts are justified. But we will defend the right of the people to voice their concerns. And we maintain it is the responsibility of the board to listen.

. . . and in District 23

Prospect Heights Dist. 23 appears to be heading in the same direction as Dist. 62 in its budget talks for the 1976-77 school year.

The Dist. 23 board in the last few weeks has hinted at an upcoming deficit, teacher lay-offs and other budget cutbacks but has been unwilling to make public any details.

Last week the board called a special meeting to discuss budget reductions, and about 40 teachers and administrators attended to see what was happening.

The meeting, however, was adjourned without any discussion of cutbacks. It was only after several questions from a teacher that Board Pres. Melvin Lace conceded reductions would be considered at the April 5 meeting.

Lace also said information on the proposed cuts would not be available to the public until the board meeting. He previously stated cuts would have to be made but refused to specify what would be considered or how large a deficit was being projected.

We understand that budget cutbacks are sensitive and often controversial decisions. Yet that is all the more reason for a board to be open, to lay out the facts and the pros and cons of each of the options it has.

The final decision rests with the school board. But we believe it is important that on the way to that decision the board listen to the people who care the most.

No one pays any attention to him until after the job's done. He's just the owner!

Presidential bids clearer

The primaries are working

by ARNOLD SAWISLAK

WASHINGTON (UPI) — Gloomy predictions to the contrary, the presidential primaries appear to be doing their work in 1976.

After six primaries between Feb. 24 and March 23, both Republican and Democratic presidential nomination pictures have been substantially clarified. With only three primaries in the next four weeks, the candidate casualty rate may not be as high as in the last month, but the scene should be set for the final rush of 22 tests in the seven weeks ending June 8.

Consider the situation on Feb. 24. A lot of political experts were sure Ronald Reagan would beat President Ford in New Hampshire, or if not there, in Florida. That was supposed to drive Ford out of the race and throw the Republican nomination into a chaotic stampede.

About as many pundits expected the dozen Democrats seeking nomination to so split the vote in New Hampshire, Massachusetts, Vermont, Florida, Illinois and North Carolina that there would be no logical frontrunner.

With apologies for paraphrasing Howard Cosell, none of those expectations eventuated.

What happened was that Ford beat Reagan in five out of the first six Republican primaries and demonstrated that when a Michigan congressman becomes President, he is more than a lucky small-time politician who will fold under the pressure of presidential-level campaigning.

For his part, Regan demonstrated that there is a sizable Republican vote for his version of the conservative political credo and that Ford is going to have to work to win the nomination next August in Kansas City.

What that means is that the initial Republican primaries have produced a contest and there is no reason to believe the remaining contests will not resolve it.

The same, in spades, is true on the Democratic side. Instead of having a dozen or more candidates running in a pack, the first six primaries have knocked out three major contenders, reduced a fourth to the status of protest candidate and left a trio of Democrats in reasonable shape to go all the way to the national convention in July at Madison Square Garden.

The three are former Gov. Jimmy Carter of Georgia, the surprise in this year's political stew; Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington, the right-to-middle road candidate of the party's pre-1972 establishment; and Rep. Morris Udall of Arizona, the only New Politics Democratic liberal who has shown any strength in the first run of primaries.

There is no guarantee that any of these candidates will win the Democratic nomination, but it seems much more possible now than it did in February. Carter has had most of the laurels to date, but if Jackson wins big in New York and Udall comes through in Wisconsin, both on April 6, the stage will be set for an all-out delegate-grabbing contest in the remaining primaries and state conventions.

Where does that leave late starters like Sen. Frank Church of Idaho, who won't be tested until the May 11 Nebraska primary, or noncontestants like Sen. Hubert Humphrey of Minnesota, who is waiting out the primaries for a deadlock to develop at the national convention?

The answer may be nowhere.

If the coming primaries perform as the past ones have, the three — or two — contenders now leading the Democratic race may have built enough momentum and gathered enough delegates to shut out the tardy and the absent hopefuls. The primaries and the less publicized state caucuses and conventions may very well do what they are supposed to — choose a presidential candidate for November.

Defense asked for Dist. 125

I have been a citizen of Stevenson High School Dist. 125 for more than 20 years. I have been a teacher in Long Grove and Dist. 125 for 20 years. As a free citizen and not a slave to any person, community or institution, I feel the time has come for me to speak.

I feel an evil and a danger has come to exist in the Stevenson district and ask that we not abandon this school to these forces. There are those, in and out of positions of accountability, who attack Stevenson with distortions and fabrications.

Stevenson is only as good as the homes from which our students come.

We have wasted too much time, money, energy and talent during this last year or so on those who could rob this community and this school of its good name. The few have taken a heavy toll, and the many should correct this so that Stevenson can move forward again. I ask the positive and fair-minded people of this district (and there are thousands and thousands of them) to speak out, to organize, and to vote in the April 10 school board election. Support the candidates who are fair, who have integrity and who will work for an educational program for all students and not just for the "elite" upper 5 per cent.

The average I.Q. of the Stevenson student body is within the normal range on the distribution curve—that is between 90 and 110. But so what? Children are more than test scores. None of my own children were National Merit Scholars, and it didn't reduce my love for them at all. Should I, then, demand that all of my neighbors produce National Merit Scholars? Should I look to my own genetic structure or demand more genes on the part of my neighbors? As I look at it, there are so many, many more important things to push for than National Merit Scholars or high Scholastic Aptitude Test scores — honesty, morals, integrity, kindness, respect for others and for life, an acceptance of all races, ethnic groups and religions, the development of a soul and a respect for property.

A few people constantly berate the Scholastic Aptitude score average of the Stevenson students. I would like to invite these people to take these tests as well as the I.Q. tests given our students. Then, they could do their own correlation study between innate ability and S.A.T. scores. For those who recently read that Stevenson's S.A.T.'s are below national averages and that Stevenson only tests the upper quarter who attend private schools, here are the results of the 1975 graduation class: 114 students in a class of 246 took the S.A.T. The grade point average for these ranged from a D to an A. Their average verbal reasoning score was 437, and their average math reasoning score was 500. The national S.A.T. average is 368 verbal reasoning and 402 for math reasoning. The national A.C.T. average is 18.7 and Stevenson's 1975 class average was 20.68. One hundred and seventy-two seniors took the A.C.T. test. The average I.Q. for the class was 109 — within the average range of all Americans.

Children of this district must not be allowed to become pawns of someone's desire for status, power or compensation for some adult's failures or unfulfilled ambitions.

Many people through the years have commented about the good things of Stevenson. Would it be too much to ask of these people to take a minute and write the press and the president of the school board? Say it in writing! After a year or so of put-downs and condemnations, I know of 67 teachers whose spirits and teaching quality would be lifted if some of the many spoken kindnesses were also read in the press and at board meetings.

money under President Nixon."

President Ford may have no bigger fan in Washington than Melanie Berney, and not just because she's out of a job if he loses in November. She's met the President twice and both times, she said, he put her right at ease.

"He has a fantastic sense of humor," she said. "I think Ford's been underrated. People portray him as a bumbling idot and he isn't. He has a fantastic memory. Both times I talked with him he said he was concerned about the long hours our staff puts in and told me how much he enjoys the news summary."

HER OPINION of the First Lady is the same. "I think she's fantastic and well-liked around the White House. There are so many women in Washington who are vicious, but I don't see them picking on Betty Ford. She's never a hassle with the President. It's like — let him take care of his own business."

While it's up to Mrs. Berney to decide what goes in the news summary each day, she sometimes gets requests for certain items. The President has asked her to watch for any reports from Democratic Party leaders that former Vice President Hubert Humphrey will not be the party's candidate in November.

Today

"We're watching him closely," she said. "The President believes Humphrey will be the nominee."

She also keeps close watch for articles on the First Lady, which are forwarded to Mrs. Ford's staff.

"I used a lot of material in the summary on Betty Ford after her remark that she wouldn't be surprised if Susan had an affair before marriage," she said. "I heard the President was concerned. Not in a big way, but interested in what the newspapers were saying. We took a particular look at the editorials. I was surprised. Most of them were very impressed with her honesty."

THE JOB REQUIRES long hours, about 10 a day, sometimes six days a week, and isn't always easy. "I have put in some questionable items," Mrs. Berney said. "Several occasions where a senior official has said something nasty about the administration. If the publication has a large circulation, I will put it in.

"It's hard to sort out the issues, and with the congressmen it's hard to decide what's important because they are always opening their mouths about something," she said. "Some are especially difficult to handle like Sen. (William) Proxmire (D-Wisconsin). He has the most active press staff in the world — he makes the news wires at least once a day. Kennedy is another hard one because he's always in the news."

Mrs. Berney has spent nearly three years in Washington, hobnobbing with the powerful, the glamorous, and the beautiful people. She said she isn't impressed and would someday like to get out of the rat race, go into broadcasting in which she majored at the University of Tennessee.

Many of the people in Washington are from the East, and she misses the "down-to-earth people" of the Midwest. Because Illinois natives are so rare in the capital, Mrs. Berney was consulted by Jack Ford about the state of things in the Northwest suburbs before he visited here last month.

"It's all true what you hear about Washington — the viciousness, gossip and the party circuit. People there think Chicago is a slow town. I'm glad I'm married, I would rather just stay at home. Singles find themselves in a jet set environment without trying.

"In Washington you can get out of touch with reality, and forget what America is really like, what the regular guy is all about," she said. "You've always got to remember who you are and what you are doing."

Theater lockout ended by judge; KEEP returns

A Cook County Circuit Court judge Tuesday issued a temporary injunction restoring KEEP Productions, Inc. to the occupancy of the Arlington Park Theatre.

The ruling by Judge Donald O'Brien of the chancery division of the Cook County Circuit Court upheld the theater operators in their battle with the Arlington Park Hilton officials.

Hilton officials had three operators of the theater arrested March 4 for criminal trespass and criminal damage to property after they allegedly forced their way into the theater and refused to leave.

The dispute over whether Hilton officials could lock the production company out of the theater arose March 4 when KEEP Productions, Inc. announced its intention to sue actor Richard Dreyfuss for walking out of the play then being presented at the theater.

An attorney for the Hilton said at the time the lockout was prompted by a breach of contract by the actors, but refused to elaborate, saying it was a complicated situation.

Karen Alton, publicist for KEEP, said the company immediately will begin to schedule plays for the theater, which has been closed since the incident.

money under President Nixon."

President Ford may have no bigger fan in Washington than Melanie Berney, and not just because she's out of a job if he loses in November. She's met the President twice and both times, she said, he put her right at ease.

"He has a fantastic sense of humor," she said. "I think Ford's been underrated. People portray him as a bumbling idot and he isn't. He has a fantastic memory. Both times I talked with him he said he was concerned about the long hours our staff puts in and told me how much he enjoys the news summary."

HER OPINION of the First Lady is the same. "I think she's fantastic and well-liked around the White House. There are so many women in Washington who are vicious, but I don't see them picking on Betty Ford. She's never a hassle with the President. It's like — let him take care of his own business."

While it's up to Mrs. Berney to decide what goes in the news summary each day, she sometimes gets requests for certain items. The President has asked her to watch for any reports from Democratic Party leaders that former Vice President Hubert Humphrey will not be the party's candidate in November.

Today

"We're watching him closely," she said. "The President believes Humphrey will be the nominee."

She also keeps close watch for articles on the First Lady, which are forwarded to Mrs. Ford's staff.

"I used a lot of material in the summary on Betty Ford after her remark that she wouldn't be surprised if Susan had an affair before marriage," she said. "I heard the President was concerned. Not in a big way, but interested in what the newspapers were saying. We took a particular look at the editorials. I was surprised. Most of them were very impressed with her honesty."

THE JOB REQUIRES long hours, about 10 a day, sometimes six days a week, and isn't always easy. "I have put in some questionable items," Mrs. Berney said. "Several occasions where a senior official has said something nasty about the administration. If the publication has a large circulation, I will put it in.

"It's hard to sort out the issues, and with the congressmen it's hard to decide what's important because they are always opening their mouths about something," she said. "Some are especially difficult to handle like Sen. (William) Proxmire (D-Wisconsin). He has the most active press staff in the world — he makes the news wires at least once a day. Kennedy is another hard one because he's always in the news."

Mrs. Berney has spent nearly three years in Washington, hobnobbing with the powerful, the glamorous, and the beautiful people. She said she isn't impressed and would someday like to get out of the rat race, go into broadcasting in which she majored at the University of Tennessee.

Many of the people in Washington are from the East, and she misses the "down-to-earth people" of the Midwest. Because Illinois natives are so rare in the capital, Mrs. Berney was consulted by Jack Ford about the state of things in the Northwest suburbs before he visited here last month.

"It's all true what you hear about Washington — the viciousness, gossip and the party circuit. People there think Chicago is a slow town. I'm glad I'm married, I would rather just stay at home. Singles find themselves in a jet set environment without trying.

"In Washington you can get out of touch with reality and forget what America is really like, what the regular guy is all about," she said. "You've always got to remember who you are and what you are doing."

Learning the fine art of assertiveness

by LEA TONKIN

The lady is assertive. In a friendly way, of course.

Jaine Carter, chairman of the board for Palatine-based Personnel Development, Inc., stakes her career as a business consultant on people power. She figures 'most anyone will get along better at work or at home when he practices the fine art of assertiveness.

Women and men who participate in Ms. Carter's training workshops learn right from the start that assertiveness is not the pushy, all-elbows approach to life. "Assertion is the middle ground between inhibition and aggression," Ms. Carter says.

SHE BELIEVES that many people, especially women, need to learn the basics of assertiveness as the key to self-respect and confidence. "The basis is, I have a perfect right to be me, and also to take responsibility for myself," she said.

Learn how to state your beliefs and take the risk of speaking out, without stepping on the rights of others, she advised. "Assertiveness is, I win, you win. You work out a reasonable compromise."

Recognition of other people's rights without selling yours down the drain will take practice, Ms. Carter said. She said some women may need to learn assertion more than men because they have a "greater sense of guilt."

The lack of self-respect scuttles many employes' opportunities to move up in the company ranks. "Many women, for example, have never thought about what they really want to do," Ms. Carter said. "They haven't been conditioned not to talk about their weaknesses."

BREAKING OUT of the inhibition cycle will take practice. Like typing and other skills, Ms. Carter said, assertiveness eventually will become second nature.

Try out your assertiveness in low-risk areas, at first. Telling it like it is at the supermarket should come before your first assertiveness encounter with your boss.

Among the skills included in an assertive person's repertoire are persistence, good eye contact with people you encounter and the ability to pick up clues about another person's attitude. Disclosure of your own feelings, and the knack of "fogging" or agreement in principle with another person's comments are other skills.

Ms. Carter plans one assertiveness seminar a month at the company's offices. The next seminars are slated April 8 and May 18. The cost is $25. Ms. Carter has conducted training courses on management topics for private and government organizations.

Prices fall amid fear of oil embargo

Lebanese war hits stock market

NEW YORK (UPI) — A sharp rise in durable goods orders failed to inspire the buying necessary to overcome concern about fighting in Lebanon Tuesday, and prices fell in moderate trading on the New York Stock Exchange.

Wall Street seemed to be fearful the battle in Lebanon would produce another major Middle East war and result in an oil embargo, such as that in 1973, which raised prices sharply and jolted the industrialized West.

As a result, the Dow Jones industrial average, a 6.06 point loser Monday, skidded another 5.27 points to 992.13 after a midafternoon rally failed to generate steam. It has been under pressure since reaching a three-year high of 1,009.21 on March 23.

The blue-chip average had been off more than nine points in the afternoon, when prices rallied briefly after the Commerce Dept. reported factory orders rose 2.5 per cent in February, the strongest gain since last June, and that durable goods orders climbed 4.2 per cent.

OTHER AVERAGES also fell as investors, preparing their portfolios for the second quarter, retreated to the sidelines. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index lost 0.40 to 102.01, the NYSE common stock index 0.21 to 54.43 and the average price of an NYSE common share 13 cents.

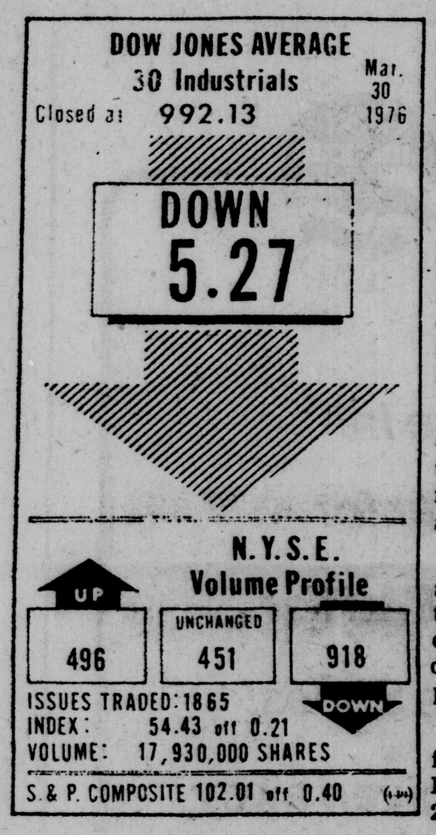
Declines topped advances, 918 to 496, among the 1,865 issues crossing the tape. The 451 unchanged issues reflected investor uncertainty, analysts said.

Volume totaled a slow 17,930,000 shares, compared with 16,100,000 traded Monday, the second slowest day of the year. Observers said the diminished trading indicated selling pressures were not strong.

XEROX, a long-time institutional favorite, was the second most active Big Board issue, losing 2¼ to 56½ on 268,900 shares, including an opening block of 102,000 shares at 55¼. One major broker advised caution on purchasing the stock until Eastman Kodak introduces some new copier products Wednesday. Kodak gained ¾ to 115¾.

Gulf & Western topped the Big Board actives, off 1/8 to 25 on 744,700 shares, including a block of 663,800 shares at 24-5/8. Sony Corp., was third, off + to 9 9n 204,200 shares.

Prices closed lower in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. The average price of an Amex share decreased by seven cents. Volume totaled 2,210,000 shares, compared with 2,620,000 traded Monday.



FTC charges monopoly of GM car crash parts

The Federal Trade Commission recently issued a complaint against General Motors Corp., Detroit, charging that the automaker's system of distributing crash parts for its cars and light trucks in anticompetitive and an unfair method of competition. Crash parts are the auto parts most frequently damaged in accidents. Fenders, doors, bumpers and grilles are among the items.

The FTC said GM allegedly maintained monopoly power over the distribution of crash parts. The company's 1972 sales volume in this market topped $250 million.

THE COMPLAINT said GM sells crash parts exclusively through some 12,000 franchise dealers. Many of the dealers sell wholesale and install the car parts. Because GM sells parts only through its dealers, the agency said some 30,000 independent body shops must purchase parts from the dealers at generally higher prices.

The automaker also refused to sell crash parts to its franchise dealers on equal terms, the complaint said. Dealers receive wholesale incentives only on the parts which fit the lines of new cars they are licensed to sell.

The results of the GM crash parts policy, according to the FTC, include: monopoly pricing and inefficient distribution; restrained competition in parts installation; increased prices for consumers and independent companies; decreased availability of parts; and lower competition in the sale to GM dealers of alternative parts.

The FTC's proposed order would require GM to sell crash parts to all auto dealers, independent body shops and independent wholesalers at comparable prices and terms.

Local firms exhibit at design show

Four hundred companies, including several firms in the Northwest suburbs, will sponsor exhibits at the Design Engineering Show Monday through April 8 in Chicago.

Clapp & Poliak, Inc., show management firm, said new products designed to protect workers' health and safety are among the planned exhibits. The show will be held at McCormick Place.

Among the show participants will be: Martec Associates, Inc., Arlington Heights; Controls Sales, Inc. and Eagle Belting Co., both of Des Plaines; F-D-C Drafting Aides Corp., Halogen Insulator and Seal Corp. and Jet Fastener Corp., all of Elk Grove Village; the Bruning Division, Addressograph Multigraph Corp. and ECM Motor Co., both of Schaumburg.

Ampex debuts new video gear

Ampex Corp., which has a plant at 2201 Lunt, Elk Grove Village, recently announced a line of new products for the television industry.

Speaking at a recent National Assn. of Broadcasters convention in Chicago, Ampex president and chief executive officer Arthur H. Hausman said the new products "represent a new thrust by the company towards broadening its product line for professional broadcasters and communications operations worldwide."

Among the new Ampex products are a videotape computerized editing system, a one-man camera and recording system that weighs less than 50 pounds and an advanced version of the company's automatic cassette recorder.

In 1975, audio-video systems products represented 45 per cent of Ampex net sales. The company is headquartered in Redwood City, Calif.

RTA requests railroad grant proposal change

The Regional Transportation Authority board has called for modification of a proposal to grant $900,000 to commuter railroads involved in purchase of service negotiations.

Suburban board member Richard Newland of Waukegan said the modifications are needed for either the Chicago and North Western Ry. and the Burlington Northern R.R. to agree to the grant proposal.

RTA Chairman Milton Pikarsky last week endorsed the grants, saying they will "demonstrate RTA's intention to continue negotiating in good faith with the commuter railroads until agreements are successfully concluded."

The proposal calls for the railroads to be given $300,000 a month for a three-month period from April 1 to June 30.

Newland said neither railroad is willing to accept Pikarsky's proposed condition that the grants be repaid without interest if a purchase of service contract is not reached by July 1.

"THEY WILL NOT buy that at all," Newland said, noting that repayment only should be required if negotiations are completely broken off. Board members agreed.

The Burlington also is taking exception to a requirement that it suspend all pending rate hike applications, Newland said. He said railroad officials think this may jeopardize a court case now pending over fare increases.

Board members said wording of the grant ordinance should require the railroads do nothing to "accelerate" rate hikes.

The revised proposal will be presented to the RTA board for approval Friday.

Home and Aid model wins $100 prize

by MARIANNE SCOTT

Palatine Center of Infant Welfare has again pulled off a coup in fashion show entertainment. And dozens of other organizations are asking themselves, "Why didn't we think of that?"

"Palatine on Parade" held last Thursday at Allgauer's, is the second show of its kind the local center has staged. Instead of professional models or members of the center parading the runway, Palatine Infant Welfare invites each charitable organization in Palatine to enter a model who then competes for cash prizes which go into the till of the organization he or she represents.

WINNING THIS year's top prize of $100 for Countryside Chapter Auxiliary of the Illinois Children's Home and Aid Society was Rosemary Kalaway, who modeled a blue and white street dress and a peach poncho evening gown laced in back with rhinestones.

Second prize of $50 went to the Woman's Club of Inverness which chose Ann Bohan as its model. Ann wore a black cotton jumpsuit and an evening gown in white cloud print over navy. Third place, $25, went to the Camp Fire Girls for their model, Polly Metz. Polly's runway ensembles were a print cotton with pleated skirt and an evening gown in lavender with camisole bodice. Polly wore her pearls the newest way — backwards.

Three men were brave enough to face the hundreds of women. They were Dave Russell and Mitch Bruski from The Bridge Youth Services and Bruce Blanck of Palatine Jaycees. All wore business suits with appropriate accessories for their first stint on the runway, changing to more casual shirts and jackets for their second appearance.

THE JUDGES, IN a quandary over who was best among the "other" sex, opted for a tie and the two organizations will split the $150 prize money.

Announcing the decision of the judges was Floyd Brown, WGN radio and television personality, who told the audience that he qualified as one of the judges because he was "a great purchaser of women's clothes." His wife, Betty, was commentator for Palatine on Parade.

Other judges were Donna Wigdahl, president of the Woman's Auxiilary of the Infant Welfare Society of Chicago; Ruth Crawford, community civic leader and adviser for Northwest Mental Health Association; Kelsey Ferris, community civic leader and wife of United Airlines' president; Dee Dee Zwilling, model and fashion coordinator and creator of Palatine on Parade; Chieko Nambu of Harper College's fashion design program; and Linda Zachman, instructor in needle arts and owner of Linda Z's in Mount Prospect Plaza.

ALSO SPONSORING models were Buehler YMCA Distaffs, represented by Jean Sanford; Girl Scout Council of Northwest Cook County, Ruby Felix; Northwest Community Hospital Woman's Auxiliary, Mary Swift; O'Hare Chapter of United Airlines Clipped Wings, Linda Melis; Palanois Park Garden Club, Diane Engle; Heart Association, Sue Kodl; Palatine Historical Society, Bonnie Mesha; Palatine Jaycee Auxiliary, Bobbi Metcalf; Palatine Junior Woman's Club, Diane Mendoza; Plum Grove Garden Club, Ginger Becker; Registered Nurses of Palatine, Joane Cullman; Suburban Service League of Little City, Mary Ann Alexander; and Welcome Wagon, Roe Henriksen.

Fashions were from Muriel Mundy and Squire on the Square, and models were judged on overall appearance and panache.

Court the proper place to get alimony order

Women and children first
by Julie Martoccio

Dear Attorney Martoccio,

I was awarded an uncontested divorce from my husband of 25 years almost two years ago. Alimony was not even considered at that time because my husband had been unemployed for several years. We had assets which we divided and I kept our home which still has a mortgage. I returned to work and was employed till now.

Due to reasons of health, I will not be working for at least a year. My ex-husband has offered to give me alimoney. There was a stipulation in our divorce decree that stated, "The court shall reserve the question of alimony for either of the parties."

DO WE HAVE to go through the expense of two attorneys plus court costs to have the alimony paid to me, even though my husband and I have reached an agreement on this? We are aware that for IRS purposes alimony is a deduction for my ex-husband but is treated as earned income for me. Can we just go ahead and file our income tax in this manner without the expense of an agreement signed by a judge? — M.H.

Dear M. H.,

I doubt it. For the agreement to be considered an "order for alimony," the court is the proper place to obtain it, even though you are both willing to make some agreement between yourselves.

HOWEVER, IF YOUR husband were to give you sums of money over a period of time, or at one time, his actions might be considered to constitute a "gift" and would be taxable to him as such.

You will need only one lawyer. Under the circumstances you stated, it will be a more or less uncontested routine matter.

Court costs should be $60. A lawyer's fee should not be large since he or she would simply prepare the necessary papers and get the order entered by the proper court.

Since you are both agreeable and again, because it is routine, neither of you will have to appear in court, saving your husband the expense of taking a day off work.

TO O.W. If your elderly gentleman friend and you wish to share your living quarters "without benefit of clergy" and on his promise to leave you everything when he dies, I strongly suggest that you get the promise in writing.

Yes, it's possible to collect for taking care of a sick person, but the time and trouble of proving the promise and possibly suing for the amount can be dispensed with by a simple contract. Let your lawyer handle this situation. It sounds as if your friend has too many greedy relatives who want his money without the obligation of caring for him.

Diet as a four-letter word

Speaking of...
by Kay Marsh

One disadvantage to working in a hospital is that "they" are always trying to make you healthy. And healthy, alas, means skinny. Or at least not fat.

Take, for instance, National Nutrition Week. Yes, I know it was March 7-13. But I am still recovering from the shock.

The hospital where I work has excellent dietitians. They're registered; they're members of the American Dietetic Association; etc. They even spell "dietitian" with two t's, which is just one more proof of the generation gap. Needless to say, they are also young (translation: thin).

SO FOR NATIONAL Nutrition Week they generously decided to offer custom diet counseling for employes, which meant a diet for everybody, including me.

First of all, they set up their scales right by the employes' entrance. The idea was, they would weigh you, compute your ideal weight, then plan a special, custom diet to help you reach it.

Of course, you didn't have to get weighed, but the suggestion was strong. And I could see that they saw me as a Real Challenge as I walked (or waddled) by. Besides, just the sight of a doctor's scale is enough to ruin my appetite for at least an hour.

Fortunately, by taking the elevator and exiting through the outpatient entrance, I was eventually able to avoid this traumatic experience.

UNFORTUNTELY, there was no way to avoid the calorie counts in the dining room, because those diabolical dietitians posted calorie counts on every single item.

Now, desserts come first in our cafeteria line. I'm sure it's psychological — part of a fiendish plot to "tempt them when they're starving." But with iron self-control, plus a little help from my friends, I usually manage to get past the desserts.

With calorie signs, however, I happily discover that my favorite Fruit Cocktail Cake has only 240 calories per serving — or even less than the 250 posted on the yogurt. As for yogurt vs. cake — well, it's just no contest.

But then I realize belatedly that you're supposed to make your whole meal off the yogurt, whereas "let them eat cake" does not exactly make for a balanced meal. Everybody needs protein — even I know that.

SO I CONSIDER the main dishes. The French dip sandwich I adore weighs in at a heavy 450 calories. The liver and onions, of which I am not so fond, brags that it has only 220.

Feeling virtuous, I take the liver and onions, disdain the potatoes (94) and snub the buttered squash (100). I even help myself to a tossed salad (40) which is mostly shredded lettuce, and presumably packed with vitamins and other good stuff.

But of course nobody likes a naked salad, especially this original Junk Food Junkie. And the dressing has another hateful sign on it: 45 calories.

Naturally, a mere 45 calories will not determine whether or not I can buy a bathing suit that fits this summer. But that, alas, is the count per teaspoon. And it takes a heap o' teaspoons to make the lettuce tasty.

WELL, I COULD go on and on about the unhappy surprises of this you-math. I haven't even mentioned such hidden calories as bread (68 per slice), plus a teensie-weensie pat of butter for the bread, or sugar for the coffee I finally learned to drink black.

By the time I pay the cashier, my nice "light lunch" has totaled up to an astronomical gastronomical 853 calories, or more than the total daily allowance for many serious dieters.

Perhaps, I decide, I'll stop by the dietitians' scales after all. Maybe they can give me a diet that I can take before or after meals.

But, as their miserable signs invidiously proclaim, "Calories DO Count."

To which I can only add, "unfortunately."

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Gravity will cause veins to dilate

Have you ever seen dilated veins in the head near the temple and above the eye (forehead) and below the eye (lower lid)? When I bend over this area swells. When I stand up gravity brings the blood back to the heart.

My doctor says this is abnormal and due to poor circulation, the same as enlarged veins in my legs. I would like your comment and advice on this problem.

At the risk of being facetious I would suggest that you not bend over so much. Of course, these veins will stand out if you bend over. Blood is a liquid and it tends to run downhill.

Why don't you do a little experiment? Hold your hand out at the level of your stomach and look at the veins fill up over the back of the hand, now hold your hand up just above the level of your eyes and watch the veins drain out. It is not abnormal for the veins to fill in the back of the hand when you hold the hand sufficiently lower than the level of the heart. It is not abnormal for the veins in your neck and head to stand out if you're going to bend over so that your head is lower than your heart.

Now you may have some local condition that concerns your doctor that I wouldn't be aware of without seeing your physical features, but I can assure you that all the normal people I have ever seen who stood on their head or bent over far enough have their veins stand out through the influence of gravity.

For information about varicose veins send 50 cents for The Health Letter, number 5-8. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of Paddock Publications, P.O. Box 326, San Antonio, Tex. 78292.

You mention fortified milk frequently. Will you please tell me what you mean by fortified skim milk? I have been drinking powdered milk for many years. Is that okay?

The dry powdered milk available in the supermarkets is mostly nonfat dry milk so I am certain that's what you are using. It will not contain any significant amounts of fat or cholesterol. It is suitable for low-fat, low-cholesterol diets.

Milk which has been fortified, whether you are speaking of low fat (2 per cent fat) or skim milk, means that non-fat milk solids have been added to it. The nonfat milk solids basically include the protein found in normal milk and calcium and other substances except fat. That's why fortified milk contains more calcium and more protein than ordinary whole milk does.

If you use low-fat milk you can estimate that about one-third of the calories in that milk comes from fat. When you need to restrict the fat in the diet, that is certainly an improvement over whole milk since about half of its calories comes from fat. The best way to totally avoid fat and cholesterol from milk products though is to use fortified skim milk or the powdered milk which you are using.

Of course one should get protein from other sources in the diet too. It is not a good idea to depend solely on milk for protein. That's why your diet should also include a reasonable amount of meat, fish and poultry. These foods plus milk and milk products provide the highest quality of protein found in most diets.

Herbed dressing used in egglant casserole

Dear Dorothy: For the reader who asked, here is a recipe for eggplant casserole made with dressing. Peel and cube one large eggplant (it should make about four cups). Cook in boiling, salted water for seven minutes. While eggplant is cooking, combine one can cream of mushroom soup, one-third cup milk, one egg (slightly beaten) and three-fourths cup herbed stuffing mix. Drain eggplant and mix with above.

Place in a baking dish and top with the following mixture: one-half cup fine (or crushed) herbed stuffing mix, mixed with two tablespoons melted butter and one cup grated sharp cheddar cheese. Bake in 350-degree oven for 20 minutes. It's very good.—Virgie H. Ewing.

Dear Dorothy: Please give me a little advice on how to keep a stainless steel sink bright, clean and shiny.—Dorothy Ann Haley

Rub gently with a very mild cleanser or one of the stainless cleaners and, after it is clean, wipe gently with either mineral oil or rubbing alcohol. The sink here is stainless, and I use pumice soap to clean it and make it a point to go over it with a sponge barely dampened with rubbing alcohol. It is dry immediately — and sparkling.

Dear Dorothy: I have a sports coat (nonwashable polyester) with a soiled collar. There isn't a spot on the rest of the coat. Can I clean it at home?—V. Forester

If it's fairly new and the stain hasn't been on long, you could get away with spraying a chalky cleaner on it, then brushing it off. However, if the soil has been on for some time, the spray could oxidize the stain and make it permanent. If it's a good garment, far better to take it to a cleaner who can prespot the collar and clean the whole thing. Why take chances with a good jacket?

Divorcing persons often get blues

Many persons going through divorce proceedings show symptons of depression and should seek treatment before making decisions affecting the breakup of their marriages, a psychiatrist says.

Dr. James B. Smith, a faculty member at the Washington University School of Medicine, St. Louis, said it is difficult to determine whether the divorce causes the depression or depression prompts persons to seek divorce.

What is clear, Smith said, is that men and women embroiled in a divorce suit are often confused, fatigued and discouraged. They must be handled with care by the persons they seek out for advice, he said.

USING NAMES from the divorce docket in St. Louis County, Smith and Dr. C. William Briscoe interviewed 139 persons. They found that 75 per cent of the women and 67 per cent of the men showed symptoms of depression.

The interviews revealed past feelings of despondency and self-pity, problems with sleeping and eating, a tendency to blame others for feelings of depression and even death wishes — all commonly accepted signs of depression.

Smith said these are not just normal feelings of being down in the dumps. They are more serious than every-day blues and should be treated.

"Our feeling is that these people often have depression, but it's never really recognized," he said. "They feel bad, but their feelings are not diagnosed as depression, and they're not referred for treatment."

SMITH SAID research showed that depression more generally is found in broken marriages of longer duration, and that in those cases, adultery was likely to be one of the grounds for divorce.

The study also indicated women more often had their depression at the time of separation, while men were more often depressed at the time of the divorce.

Smith said the reasons behind these findings are elusive, just as the causes for depression in general often are hard to determine.

"There is a lot of controversy on whether depression is a reaction to a specific event or a series of events," he said.

IN THE CASE OF divorce, it is not clear whether the depression is a response to the trauma of the marriage breaking up or the result of a long history of marital turmoil.

"We feel that regardless of the specific cause, the significant thing is to see that the depression is treated, so the individual can make a proper decision," Smith said. "A frequent symptom of depression is that judgments or decisions are difficult to make."

Those giving professional advice also should be aware of the problem, he said.

"We ended up feeling that whoever it is who deals with people at the time of divorce — lawyers, psychiatrists, clergymen or counselors — should be tuned in to the fact that there is a good chance there is an emotional illness present, and it should be treated," Smith said.

The doctor says

by Lawrence E. Lamb, M.D.

Gravity will cause veins to dilate

Have you ever seen dilated veins in the head near the temple and above the eye (forehead) and below the eye (lower lid)? When I bend over this area swells. When I stand up gravity brings the blood back to the heart.

My doctor says this is abnormal and due to poor circulation, the same as enlarged veins in my legs. I would like your comment and advice on this problem.

At the risk of being facetious I would suggest that you not bend over so much. Of course, these veins will stand out if you bend over. Blood is a liquid and it tends to run downhill.

Why don't you do a little experiment? Hold your hand out at the level of your stomach and look at the veins fill up over the back of the hand, now hold your hand up just above the level of your eyes and watch the veins drain out. It is not abnormal for the veins to fill in the back of the hand when you hold the hand sufficiently lower than the level of the heart. It is not abnormal for the veins in your neck and head to stand out if you're going to bend over so that your head is lower than your heart.

Now you may have some local condition that concerns your doctor that I wouldn't be aware of without seeing your physical features, but I can assure you that all the normal people I have ever seen who stood on their head or bent over far enough have their veins stand out through the influence of gravity.

For information about varicose veins send 50 cents for The Health Letter, number 5-8. Send a long, stamped, self-addressed envelope for mailing. Address your letter to me in care of Paddock Publications, P.O. Box 326, San Antonio, Tex. 78292.

You mention fortified milk frequently. Will you please tell me what you mean by fortified skim milk? I have been drinking powdered milk for many years. Is that okay?

The dry powdered milk available in the supermarkets is mostly nonfat dry milk so I am certain that's what you are using. It will not contain any significant amounts of fat or cholesterol. It is suitable for low-fat, low-cholesterol diets.

Milk which has been fortified, whether you are speaking of low fat (2 per cent fat) or skim milk, means that non-fat milk solids have been added to it. The nonfat milk solids basically include the protein found in normal milk and calcium and other substances except fat. That's why fortified milk contains more calcium and more protein than ordinary whole milk does.

If you use low-fat milk you can estimate that about one-third of the calories in that milk comes from fat. When you need to restrict the fat in the diet, that is certainly an improvement over whole milk since about half of its calories comes from fat. The best way to totally avoid fat and cholesterol from milk products though is to use fortified skim milk or the powdered milk which you are using.

Of course one should get protein from other sources in the diet too. It is not a good idea to depend solely on milk for protein. That's why your diet should also include a reasonable amount of meat, fish and poultry. These foods plus milk and milk products provide the highest quality of protein found in most diets.

Herbed dressing used in egglant casserole

Dear Dorothy: For the reader who asked, here is a recipe for eggplant casserole made with dressing. Peel and cube one large eggplant (it should make about four cups). Cook in boiling, salted water for seven minutes. While eggplant is cooking, combine one can cream of mushroom soup, one-third cup milk, one egg (slightly beaten) and three-fourths cup herbed stuffing mix. Drain eggplant and mix with above.

Place in a baking dish and top with the following mixture: one-half cup fine (or crushed) herbed stuffing mix, mixed with two tablespoons melted butter and one cup grated sharp cheddar cheese. Bake in 350-degree oven for 20 minutes. It's very good.—Virgie H. Ewing.

Dear Dorothy: Please give me a little advice on how to keep a stainless steel sink bright, clean and shiny.—Dorothy Ann Haley

Rub gently with a very mild cleanser or one of the stainless cleaners and, after it is clean, wipe gently with either mineral oil or rubbing alcohol. The sink here is stainless, and I use pumice soap to clean it and make it a point to go over it with a sponge barely dampened with rubbing alcohol. It is dry immediately — and sparkling.

Dear Dorothy: I have a sports coat (nonwashable polyester) with a soiled collar. There isn't a spot on the rest of the coat. Can I clean it at home?—V. Forester

If it's fairly new and the stain hasn't been on long, you could get away with spraying a chalky cleaner on it, then brushing it off. However, if the soil has been on for some time, the spray could oxidize the stain and make it permanent. If it's a good garment, far better to take it to a cleaner who can prespot the collar and clean the whole thing. Why take chances with a good jacket?

(Mrs. Ritz welcomes questions and hints. If a personal reply is required, please enclose a stamped, self-addressed envelope. Write to Dorothy Ritz in care of Suburban Living, Paddock Publications, Box 280, Arlington Heights, Ill. 60006.)

Divorcing persons often get blues

Many persons going through divorce proceedings show symptons of depression and should seek treatment before making decisions affecting the breakup of their marriages, a psychiatrist says.

Dr. James B. Smith, a faculty member at the Washington University School of Medicine, St. Louis, said it is difficult to determine whether the divorce causes the depression or depression prompts persons to seek divorce.

What is clear, Smith said, is that men and women embroiled in a divorce suit are often confused, fatigued and discouraged. They must be handled with care by the persons they seek out for advice, he said.

USING NAMES from the divorce docket in St. Louis County, Smith and Dr. C. William Briscoe interviewed 139 persons. They found that 75 per cent of the women and 67 per cent of the men showed symptoms of depression.

The interviews revealed past feelings of despondency and self-pity, problems with sleeping and eating, a tendency to blame others for feelings of depression and even death wishes — all commonly accepted signs of depression.

Smith said these are not just normal feelings of being down in the dumps. They are more serious than every-day blues and should be treated.

"Our feeling is that these people often have depression, but it's never really recognized," he said. "They feel bad, but their feelings are not diagnosed as depression, and they're not referred for treatment."

SMITH SAID research showed that depression more generally is found in broken marriages of longer duration, and that in those cases, adultery was likely to be one of the grounds for divorce.

The study also indicated women more often had their depression at the time of separation, while men were more often depressed at the time of the divorce.

Smith said the reasons behind these findings are elusive, just as the causes for depression in general often are hard to determine.

"There is a lot of controversy on whether depression is a reaction to a specific event or a series of events," he said.

IN THE CASE OF divorce, it is not clear whether the depression is a response to the trauma of the marriage breaking up or the result of a long history of marital turmoil.

"We feel that regardless of the specific cause, the significant thing is to see that the depression is treated, so the individual can make a proper decision," Smith said. "A frequent symptom of depression is that judgments or decisions are difficult to make."

Those giving professional advice also should be aware of the problem, he said.

"We ended up feeling that whoever it is who deals with people at the time of divorce — lawyers, psychiatrists, clergymen or counselors — should be tuned in to the fact that there is a good chance there is an emotional illness present, and it should be treated," Smith said.

Greatest golfer ever? Patty Berg had super game

Jim Murray

The greatest golfer who ever lived was not necessarily named Ben or Jack or Sam or Arnold. It might just have been Pat.

The greatest golfer who ever lived might have come from, of all places, Minneapolis, and not Texas, Florida, San Diego, Latrobe or Columbus.

The greatest golfer who ever lived might not even be blond or Mormon — in fact, might be freckle-faced and redheaded and had pigtails as a kid.

I talked the other day to this player, who was in the all-time top 10 of the game and, as a kid, was all those things, freckle-faced, redheaded, fast afoot, and aggressive as Dempsey. The Green Bay Packers lost a great safetyman the day Patty Jane Berg found out she wasn't a boy.

It was about age 15 that that calamity befell Patricia Jane Berg. Up till then, she just thought she had longer hair than most of the other fellows. They say that, to get Patty to play golf, you first had to be able to climb a tree, or run the 100 or take the catcher's mask off her.

The 50th St. Tigers were never the same after Patty took up golf and Bud Wilkinson went into coaching. Patty was the greatest quarterback the Tigers ever had when they were the scourge of the sandlots of St. Paul and Minneapolis. She was also the greatest fullback. She was so good, Wilkinson, later a great college end, had to play down lineman on her team.

Patty Berg won more tournaments, 80, than Ben Hogan, Arnold Palmer or Jack Nicklaus. She once paired with the great Babe Zaharias to rout a British (men's) Walker Cup team humiliatingly. She was probably the greatest fairway wood player, man, woman or boy, ever to pull a spoon out of a bag and rifle it to a pin.

Sartorially, she was a cross between Tugboat Annie and Queen Victoria. Patty almost always strode a golf course in sensible shoes, high-neck blouse, floppy fedora (to protect her freckled skin) and ankle-length wool skirts. She looked as if she were bundled up against the Klondike even in Florida in summer.

Her duels with Babe Didrikson Zaharias were golf's finest hours. These two incomparable strikers of the ball frequently went head-to-head for 37 to 42 holes on some matches. Babe would frequently land on a fairway, turn to her followers, and say.

"What's Patty doing?" And, if Patty, as usual, was doing well. Babe would take out one club more than she planned and go for the pin instead of just the green. No Hogan-Snead, Palmer-Nicklaus — or even Dempsey-Firpo — match was more exciting.

It was Patty Berg, along with Babe Zaharias and Fred Corcoran, who formed and was the first president of the Ladies PGA when it was founded in a hotel in Miami Beach in 1948. She was its first Open champion.

Hers was the most recognizable silhouette in all of golf. Shuffling along in her Hetty Green costume, hitting impeccable shot after impeccable shot, Patty Berg scattered golf for four generations. "Arsenic and Old Lace," competitors used to grumble of her. A young, ponytail thing in shorts and neon alpaca once lost, 10 and 8 to Patty and marveled, "That's the first time I've ever been beaten by anyone wearing a brooch." Patty looked like a lady from Pasadena, the kind used-car dealers always say owned the car you're looking at.

As courageous off the course as on, Patty not only licked par in her career but cancer.

Patty Berg is the Sam Snead of women's golf. She is part history and part present. She won tournaments as far back as 1940. But she can still hit the ball out with the best of them. She won't expect to win, but she will be teeing it up in the Colgate-Dinah Shore Winners Circle Championship at Mission Hills in Palm Springs, the richest single sports event for women in history.

When the girls shoot for $200,000 in prizes, with $32,000 for winning, $1,000-a-day for low score, $1,000-a day for the leader, $5,000 for a hole-in-one, it would behoove the winner to raise a toast to that nice little lady in the floppy hat and laced shoes who helped to make it all possible over the years when she kept the game alive playing for $100 war bonds, or $1,000 purses on courses they had to chase cows off when the foursomes came through.

Of course, if Patty gets on her game, and loosens her corset, they may be too busy trying to keep her from being the one giving the toast than to make any other grander plans.

Indoor track championship tonight at Buffalo Grove

by ART MUGALIAN
Track and Field Editor

At the beginning of the indoor track season, most of the Mid-Suburban League coaches held out little hope of finishing any higher than second in the conference indoor meet.

"We could start running now and we'd still never catch Forest View," one of them said in early February.

Forest View's awesome power — the Falcons returned six indoor champions, including four MSL record-holders and one state champ — sent shivers up the spines of opposing coaches and produced strange nightmares in which every winner in every race wore the gold and black.

But when the MSL's third indoor conference meet gets under way at 4 p.m. today at Buffalo Grove High School, at least four and maybe as many as eight teams will have an excellent chance to dethrone the Falcons.

Injuries to Forest View's Steve Schellenberger and Mike Harvey have reduced the odds on the Falcons' repeating as indoor champs.

Schellenberger, the defending indoor record-holder in the 440 and the 880, hasn't run a race in more than a month, and though he is entered in the 880 tonight his effectiveness is doubtful. The IHSA Class AA champ may not even run.

Harvey, the winner last year in the long jump and the triple jump, is again entered in both events, but the pain in his injured foot has made it almost impossible for the talented senior to work out.

"Harvey might take just one jump in each event," said Forest View coach Bill Mohrmann.

Mohrmann will be counting on hurdler Jim Vartanian, entered in both the highs and lows, and distance runner Darryl Robinson to sweep four events between them in order to recapture the crown Forest View gained last year.

Two other Falcons who could help the cause are shotputters Mike Mischnick and Randy Gaitsch, who are among the league's best in that event.

Vartanian, who will also run the 50, was indoor high hurdles champion last year and finished second in the lows. Robinson won the two-mile as a sophomore and ran second in the mile. Mischnick took a fourth last year in the shot.

With Forest View's strength diminished, many observers give the favorite's nod to Palatine, Rolling Meadows, Hoffman Estates or Fremd. Darkhorse candidates for the title are Prospect, Schaumburg, Conant and Hersey.

Forest View may still have the edge, though, despite the Falcons' troubles.

"Don't count us out yet," said Schellenberger, who is top-seeded and probably still the favorite to win the 880 if he runs.

The other returning indoor champions are Schaumburg's Scott Mielke, who set a conference mark in the high jump with a 6-3 last year, and Rolling Meadows' Rick Sutton, a junior who ran a :05.6 in the 50-dash for another record.

Schaumburg was second in the team standings last year and Meadows was third.

Several records are in danger of falling, including both hurdles marks and Mielke's high jump record. An excellent crop of low hurdlers, led by Vartanian, Prospect's Jim Wright, Elk Grove's Pat O'Brien, and Palatine's Bill Finlay, could do real violence to the existing mark of :06.2. The record in the highs is :06.5, held by Vartanian.

Eight league high jumpers have reached 6-2 or better, led by Meadows' Jeff Lund at 6-4.

Robinson is a threat to break his own two-mile mark of 9:42.3, though the mile record seems safe at 4:28.0, set two years ago by Fremd's Wil Fieldhouse.

Sutton has an excellent chance to lower his record in the 50, especially if pushed, as expected, by Ben Orcutt of Buffalo Grove.

Field events will begin at 4 p.m. with sprint prelims at 5:00 and finals to get under way at 7:00.

Buffalo Grove High School is at the corner of Dundee and Arlington Heights Roads.

Bears lose Ely, Douthitt in NFL veterans draft

From Herald wire services

Three members of the Bears, including linebacker Larry Ely and defensive back Earl Douthitt, got free tickets to Tampa, Fla., Tuesday night as the National Football League's two new expansion entries, the Tampa Bay Buccaneers and the Seattle Seahawks, stocked their teams from a pool of league veterans.

The Buccaneers, relying on General Manager-Coach John McKay's West Coast background, selected all three of the players the Oakland Raiders were scheduled to lose Tuesday night when they took running backs Harold Hart and Louis Carter along with tight end Bob Moore in the National Football League's veteran allocation draft.

The Seahawks took the only two quarterbacks in the draft, grabbing Neil Graff from New England and Gary Keithley from St. Louis. The Seahawks also plucked some big-name veterans, including former All-Pro tackle Norm Evans from Miami and defensive back Al Matthews of Green Bay.

Also drafted from the Bears was reserve linebacker Bubba Broussard.

Tampa, although bypassing quarterbacks, assured themselves a solid offensive nucleus by selecting running backs Louis Carter and Harold Hart as well as tight end Bob Moore from the Raiders. Hart, used primarily as a specialist by the Raiders, had the longest kick return in the NFL last season, 102 yards against Miami.

McKay also selected former All-America Anthony Davis from the New York Jets, even though Davis has signed on to play next season with the Toronto Argonauts of the Canadian Football League. He also took three other former Trojans, J. K. McKay, his son, from the Cleveland Browns, linebacker Jimmy Gunn from the New York Giants and running back Manfred Moore from San Francisco.

Other selections by the Buccaneers included linebackers Bruce Elia of the Miami Dolphins, Larry Ball of the Detroit Lions and Bubba Broussard of the Chicago Bears.

The Buccaneers also came away with 12-year veteran defensive back Jim Kearney of the Kansas City Chiefs.

McKay also selected linebacker Doug Swift from the Miami Dolphins, but he has already indicated he will end his pro career at 27 years of age to become a dentist.

Taken from the world champion Pittsburgh Steelers was Dave Reavis, an offensive tackle.

Others taken by Tampa Bay were: Morris Legrand, running back, New Orleans; Vince Kendrick, running back, Atlanta; Barry Smith, wide receiver Green Bay, a former No. 1 pick.

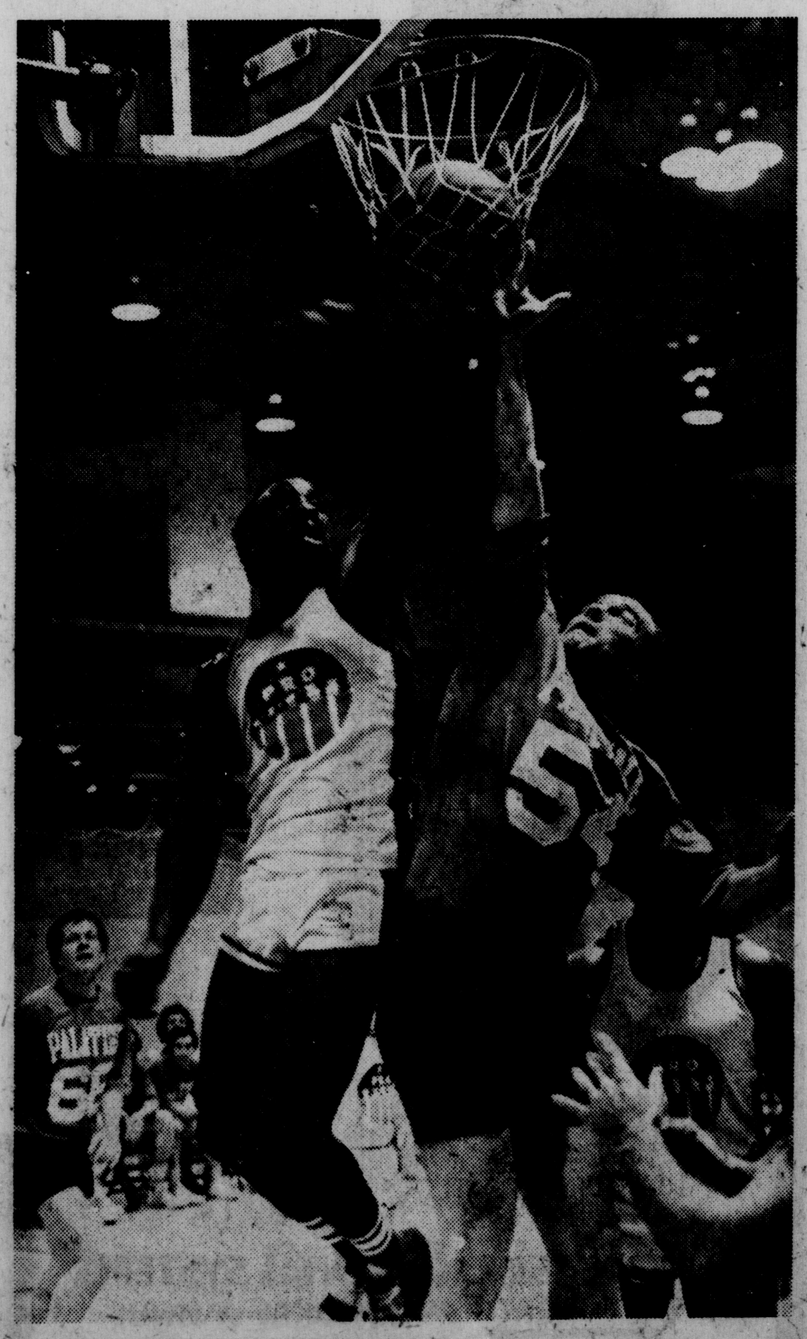
Seattle sunk its teeth into the devastating world champion Pittsburgh Steeler defense, stripping away some of its depth. The Seahawks grabbed defensive back Dave Brown and linebacker Ed Bradley. Brown, used primarily as a kick return specialist by Pittsburgh, was the Steelers' No. 1 draft pick last year.

Seattle came up with the biggest name in the draft when it selected Baltimore middle linebacker Mike Curtis, who lost his job through injury last season to Jim Cheyunski. The Colts were reportedly unhappy with Curtis' roaming style.

In the veteran stocking plan for Tampa Bay and Seattle, the NFL teams could lose no more than three players each.

Seattle also came away with two members of the NFC champion Dallas Cowboys, third-string tight end Ron Howard and defensive back Roland Woolsey. Tampa Bay grabbed Cowboy reserve linebacker Cal Peterson.

Seattle looked down the coast to the Los Angeles Rams for some of its defensive strength, selecting linebacker Ken Geddes and defensive back Eddie McMillan. The Seahawks also claimed defensive tackle Wayne Baker and guard Bob Penchion from San Francisco.



IN THE NET. Walter Isaacson (54) scores on Allan Ellis of the Chicago Bears during fund-raising basketball event at Palatine that matched coaches from Fremd and Palatine high schools against Chicago area celebrities.

New faces, attack give Atlanta Braves most improved label

(This is the 7th in a series of 24 baseball spring training sizeups.)

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — A new owner, a new manager and more new players than a floating crap game figure to make the Atlanta Braves the most improved team in the National League West this season.

Ted Turner, a 37-year-old millionaire with a world famous reputation as a yachtman, is the new owner and he brings an energetic drive to the front office that has been missing for many years.

Turner is the type of guy who sets a goal and goes after it 100 per cent, and his immediate goal is to "bring a championship to Atlanta with the Braves."

To help achieve that goal the Braves hired Dave Bristol as manager. Bristol, who previously managed at Cincinnati and Milwaukee, is regarded as one of the shrewdest baseball minds in the business and during the winter he went about restructuring the club from top to bottom.

As part of the off-season reshuffling of personnel, the Braves acquired five players — Ken Henderson, Jim Wynn, Lee Lacy, Jerry Royster, and Roger Moret — who figure to be regulars.

"We're changed faces and attitude," says Bristol. "I want to win now but at the same time I want to build a sound organization with the Braves. We're going to do everything we can to make it exciting for the fans. They're gonna love to come to the ballpark to see us play."

STRENGTHS — Wynn, Henderson and Rowland Office form one of NL's best outfields; front line pitching fairly solid with Phil Niekro, Carl Morton, Moret and Dick Ruthven; infield vastly improved with addition of Royster and Darrel Chaney and shifting of Darrell Evans to first base; solid bench.

WEAKNESS — Poor relief pitching; weak defensive catching corps.

NEW FACES — Wynn and Henderson will start in the outfield, Lacy and Royster should become infield regulars and Moret and Ruthven add depth to pitching staff.

OUTLOOK — Braves certainly will not be pushovers, but they're in baseball's toughest division and don't measure up to Cincinnati or Los Angeles. Should battle San Francisco for third.

The greatest golfer who ever lived might not even be blond or Mormon — in fact, might be freckle-faced and redheaded and had pigtails as a kid.

I talked the other day to this player, who was in the all-time top 10 of the game and, as a kid, was all those things, freckle-faced, redheaded, fast afoot, and aggressive as Dempsey. The Green Bay Packers lost a great safetyman the day Patty Jane Berg found out she wasn't a boy.

It was about age 15 that that calamity befell Patricia Jane Berg. Up till then, she just thought she had longer hair than most of the other fellows. They say that, to get Patty to play golf, you first had to be able to climb a tree, or run the 100 or take the catcher's mask off her.

The 50th St. Tigers were never the same after Patty took up golf and Bud Wilkinson went into coaching. Patty was the greatest quarterback the Tigers ever had when they were the scourge of the sandlots of St. Paul and Minneapolis. She was also the greatest fullback. She was so good, Wilkinson, later a great college end, had to play down lineman on her team.

Patty Berg won more tournaments, 80, than Ben Hogan, Arnold Palmer or Jack Nicklaus. She once paired with the great Babe Zaharias to rout a British (men's) Walker Cup team humiliatingly. She was probably the greatest fairway wood player, man, woman or boy, ever to pull a spoon out of a bag and rifle it to a pin.

Sartorially, she was a cross between Tugboat Annie and Queen Victoria. Patty almost always strode a golf course in sensible shoes, high-neck blouse, floppy fedora (to protect her freckled skin) and ankle-length wool skirts. She looked as if she were bundled up against the Klondike even in Florida in summer.

Her duels with Babe Didrikson Zaharias were golf's finest hours. These two incomparable strikers of the ball frequently went head-to-head for 37 to 42 holes on some matches. Babe would frequently land on a fairway, turn to her followers, and say.

"What's Patty doing?" And, if Patty, as usual, was doing well. Babe would take out one club more than she planned and go for the pin instead of just the green. No Hogan-Snead, Palmer-Nicklaus — or even Dempsey-Firpo — match was more exciting.

It was Patty Berg, along with Babe Zaharias and Fred Corcoran, who formed and was the first president of the Ladies PGA when it was founded in a hotel in Miami Beach in 1948. She was its first Open champion.

Hers was the most recognizable silhouette in all of golf. Shuffling along in her Hetty Green costume, hitting impeccable shot after impeccable shot, Patty Berg scattered golf for four generations. "Arsenic and Old Lace," competitors used to grumble of her. A young, ponytail thing in shorts and neon alpaca once lost, 10 and 8 to Patty and marveled, "That's the first time I've ever been beaten by anyone wearing a brooch." Patty looked like a lady from Pasadena, the kind used-car dealers always say owned the car you're looking at.

As courageous off the course as on, Patty not only licked par in her career but cancer.

Patty Berg is the Sam Snead of women's golf. She is part history and part present. She won tournaments as far back as 1940. But she can still hit the ball out with the best of them. She won't expect to win, but she will be teeing it up in the Colgate-Dinah Shore Winners Circle Championship at Mission Hills in Palm Springs, the richest single sports event for women in history.

When the girls shoot for $200,000 in prizes, with $32,000 for winning, $1,000-a-day for low score, $1,000-a day for the leader, $5,000 for a hole-in-one, it would behoove the winner to raise a toast to that nice little lady in the floppy hat and laced shoes who helped to make it all possible over the years when she kept the game alive playing for $100 war bonds, or $1,000 purses on courses they had to chase cows off when the foursomes came through.

Of course, if Patty gets on her game, and loosens her corset, they may be too busy trying to keep her from being the one giving the toast than to make any other grander plans.

Indoor track championship tonight at Buffalo Grove

by ART MUGALIAN
Track and Field Editor

At the beginning of the indoor track season, most of the Mid-Suburban League coaches held out little hope of finishing any higher than second in the conference indoor meet.

"We could start running now and we'd still never catch Forest View," one of them said in early February.

Forest View's awesome power — the Falcons returned six indoor champions, including four MSL record-holders and one state champ — sent shivers up the spines of opposing coaches and produced strange nightmares in which every winner in every race wore the gold and black.

But when the MSL's third indoor conference meet gets under way at 4 p.m. today at Buffalo Grove High School, at least four and maybe as many as eight teams will have an excellent chance to dethrone the Falcons.

Injuries to Forest View's Steve Schellenberger and Mike Harvey have reduced the odds on the Falcons' repeating as indoor champs.

Schellenberger, the defending indoor record-holder in the 440 and the 880, hasn't run a race in more than a month, and though he is entered in the 880 tonight his effectiveness is doubtful. The IHSA Class AA champ may not even run.

Harvey, the winner last year in the long jump and the triple jump, is again entered in both events, but the pain in his injured foot has made it almost impossible for the talented senior to work out.

"Harvey might take just one jump in each event," said Forest View coach Bill Mohrmann.

Mohrmann will be counting on hurdler Jim Vartanian, entered in both the highs and lows, and distance runner Darryl Robinson to sweep four events between them in order to recapture the crown Forest View gained last year.

Two other Falcons who could help the cause are shotputters Mike Mischnick and Randy Gaitsch, who are among the league's best in that event.

Vartanian, who will also run the 50, was indoor high hurdles champion last year and finished second in the lows. Robinson won the two-mile as a sophomore and ran second in the mile. Mischnick took a fourth last year in the shot.

With Forest View's strength diminished, many observers give the favorite's nod to Palatine, Rolling Meadows, Hoffman Estates or Fremd. Darkhorse candidates for the title are Prospect, Schaumburg, Conant and Hersey.

Forest View may still have the edge, though, despite the Falcons' troubles.

"Don't count us out yet," said Schellenberger, who is top-seeded and probably still the favorite to win the 880 if he runs.

The other returning indoor champions are Schaumburg's Scott Mielke, who set a conference mark in the high jump with a 6-3 last year, and Rolling Meadows' Rick Sutton, a junior who ran a :05.6 in the 50-dash for another record.

Schaumburg was second in the team standings last year and Meadows was third.

Several records are in danger of falling, including both hurdles marks and Mielke's high jump record. An excellent crop of low hurdlers, led by Vartanian, Prospect's Jim Wright, Elk Grove's Pat O'Brien, and Palatine's Bill Finlay, could do real violence to the existing mark of :06.2. The record in the highs is :06.5, held by Vartanian.

Eight league high jumpers have reached 6-2 or better, led by Meadows' Jeff Lund at 6-4.

Robinson is a threat to break his own two-mile mark of 9:42.3, though the mile record seems safe at 4:28.0, set two years ago by Fremd's Wil Fieldhouse.

Sutton has an excellent chance to lower his record in the 50, especially if pushed, as expected, by Ben Orcutt of Buffalo Grove.

Field events will begin at 4 p.m. with sprint prelims at 5:00 and finals to get under way at 7:00.

Buffalo Grove High School is at the corner of Dundee and Arlington Heights Roads.

Bears lose Ely, Douthitt in NFL veterans draft

From Herald wire services

Three members of the Bears, including linebacker Larry Ely and defensive back Earl Douthitt, got free tickets to Tampa, Fla., Tuesday night as the National Football League's two new expansion entries, the Tampa Bay Buccaneers and the Seattle Seahawks, stocked their teams from a pool of league veterans.

The Buccaneers, relying on General Manager-Coach John McKay's West Coast background, selected all three of the players the Oakland Raiders were scheduled to lose Tuesday night when they took running backs Harold Hart and Louis Carter along with tight end Bob Moore in the National Football League's veteran allocation draft.

The Seahawks took the only two quarterbacks in the draft, grabbing Neil Graff from New England and Gary Keithley from St. Louis. The Seahawks also plucked some big-name veterans, including former All-Pro tackle Norm Evans from Miami and defensive back Al Matthews of Green Bay.

Also drafted from the Bears was reserve linebacker Bubba Broussard.

Tampa, although bypassing quarterbacks, assured themselves a solid offensive nucleus by selecting running backs Louis Carter and Harold Hart as well as tight end Bob Moore from the Raiders. Hart, used primarily as a specialist by the Raiders, had the longest kick return in the NFL last season, 102 yards against Miami.

McKay also selected former All-America Anthony Davis from the New York Jets, even though Davis has signed on to play next season with the Toronto Argonauts of the Canadian Football League. He also took three other former Trojans, J. K. McKay, his son, from the Cleveland Browns, linebacker Jimmy Gunn from the New York Giants and running back Manfred Moore from San Francisco.

Other selections by the Buccaneers included linebackers Bruce Elia of the Miami Dolphins, Larry Ball of the Detroit Lions and Bubba Broussard of the Chicago Bears.

The Buccaneers also came away with 12-year veteran defensive back Jim Kearney of the Kansas City Chiefs.

McKay also selected linebacker Doug Swift from the Miami Dolphins, but he has already indicated he will end his pro career at 27 years of age to become a dentist.

Taken from the world champion Pittsburgh Steelers was Dave Reavis, an offensive tackle.

Others taken by Tampa Bay were: Morris Legrand, running back, New Orleans; Vince Kendrick, running back, Atlanta; Barry Smith, wide receiver Green Bay, a former No. 1 pick.

Seattle sunk its teeth into the devastating world champion Pittsburgh Steeler defense, stripping away some of its depth. The Seahawks grabbed defensive back Dave Brown and linebacker Ed Bradley. Brown, used primarily as a kick return specialist by Pittsburgh, was the Steelers' No. 1 draft pick last year.

Seattle came up with the biggest name in the draft when it selected Baltimore middle linebacker Mike Curtis, who lost his job through injury last season to Jim Cheyunski. The Colts were reportedly unhappy with Curtis' roaming style.

In the veteran stocking plan for Tampa Bay and Seattle, the NFL teams could lose no more than three players each.

Seattle also came away with two members of the NFC champion Dallas Cowboys, third-string tight end Ron Howard and defensive back Roland Woolsey. Tampa Bay grabbed Cowboy reserve linebacker Cal Peterson.

Seattle looked down the coast to the Los Angeles Rams for some of its defensive strength, selecting linebacker Ken Geddes and defensive back Eddie McMillan. The Seahawks also claimed defensive tackle Wayne Baker and guard Bob Penchion from San Francisco.

New faces, attack give Atlanta Braves most improved label

(This is the 7th in a series of 24 baseball spring training sizeups.)

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI) — A new owner, a new manager and more new players than a floating crap game figure to make the Atlanta Braves the most improved team in the National League West this season.

Ted Turner, a 37-year-old millionaire with a world famous reputation as a yachtman, is the new owner and he brings an energetic drive to the front office that has been missing for many years.

Turner is the type of guy who sets a goal and goes after it 100 per cent, and his immediate goal is to "bring a championship to Atlanta with the Braves."

To help achieve that goal the Braves hired Dave Bristol as manager. Bristol, who previously managed at Cincinnati and Milwaukee, is regarded as one of the shrewdest baseball minds in the business and during the winter he went about restructuring the club from top to bottom.

As part of the off-season reshuffling of personnel, the Braves acquired five players — Ken Henderson, Jim Wynn, Lee Lacy, Jerry Royster, and Roger Moret — who figure to be regulars.

"We're changed faces and attitude," says Bristol. "I want to win now but at the same time I want to build a sound organization with the Braves. We're going to do everything we can to make it exciting for the fans. They're gonna love to come to the ballpark to see us play."

STRENGTHS — Wynn, Henderson and Rowland Office form one of NL's best outfields; front line pitching fairly solid with Phil Niekro, Carl Morton, Moret and Dick Ruthven; infield vastly improved with addition of Royster and Darrel Chaney and shifting of Darrell Evans to first base; solid bench.

WEAKNESS — Poor relief pitching; weak defensive catching corps.

NEW FACES — Wynn and Henderson will start in the outfield, Lacy and Royster should become infield regulars and Moret and Ruthven add depth to pitching staff.

OUTLOOK — Braves certainly will not be pushovers, but they're in baseball's toughest division and don't measure up to Cincinnati or Los Angeles. Should battle San Francisco for third.

Former Prospect coach to head NIU basketball

A former head football and assistant basketball coach at Prospect High School has been named to head the Northern Illinois University basketball program.

John McDougal, 52, who guided his Aurora West basketball team to the Class AA title game this year, will succeed Emory Luck as head coach of the NIU Huskies.

McDougal, a graduate of the University of Evansville, Ind., is a veteran of 26 years in high school coaching.

Prior to taking over at Aurora West in 1965, he spent one year at Prospect. He also coached at Carmi High School in southeast Illinois for 10 years, coaching a variety of sports, and began his coaching career at Palestine in eastern Illinois after his graduation from Evansville in 1950.

McDougal's appointment must yet be confirmed by the NIU Board of Regents.

McDougal has been head basketball coach at Aurora West since 1965 and athletic director since 1972. His Blackhawks lost the state Class AA championship by one point to Morgan Park this year.

In 11 years at Aurora West, McDougal led the Blackhawks to four Upstate Eight conference championships, four state Class AA regional titles, and two finishes among the top four teams.

Messersmith to join Hunter, Yanks?

Andy Messersmith may be about to join Jim Hunter as a $- million pitcher for the New York Yankees.

The New York Daily News reported in its Wednesday morning edition that the former California Angel and Los Angeles Dodger right-hander is close to signing a four-year contract estimated to call for $1.5-million. The highest previous bid for Messersmith, declared a free agent after playing out his option with the Dodgers in 1975, was believed to be for $600,000.

The Yankees signed Hunter declared a free agent after playing out his option with the Oakland A's in 1974, for an estimated $2.8-million spread over five years.

Cubs, Sox both notch spring wins

Chet Lemon's two-run pinch single in the ninth inning put the White Sox over the Kansas City Royals, 3-2, while pitcher Ken Frailing's five shutout innings led the Cubs to a 5-1 spring training win over Arizona State University Wednesday.

Rich Gossage hurled five scoreless innings for the ChiSox. For the Cubs, Frailing allowed only one hit, an infield single, in his five innings and helped his own cause by tripling in a run. George Mitterwald iced the game for the Cubs with a two-run homer.

Seaver, Mets near pact settlement

The New York Mets and Tom Seaver inched closer to a contract agreement Tuesday that would make the three-time Cy Young Award winner the highest paid pitcher in National League history.

Spurred by reports of a Seaver-Los Angeles trade, the Mets ace right-handed huddled with General Manager Joe McDonald for a half hour and there were indications of a softening of position on both sides.

"I feel more comfortable today than I have in six weeks," said Seaver, who posted a 22-9 record and a 2.38 earned run average last season.

Woman enters Trenton 500 auto race

Janet Guthrie, the first woman nominated for an Indianapolis 500 race, was entered Tuesday for the April 25 Trentonion 200 miler at Trenton's International Speedway.

Guthrie, a slender 38-year old brunette with 13 years of SCCA experience, will attempt to qualify Rolla Vollstedt's car on the 1.5 mile Trenton track. The race is the final prep for Indy aspirants prior to the qualifying runs for the May 30 Indianapolis classic.

Two boys repeat on all-area mat squad

by KEITH REINHARD
Wrestling Editor

A mat mentor's marvel.

That would be the 1976 Herald all-area wrestling team, a 12-man contingent any coach in the state would be extremely pleased to direct.

The fourth annual all-star grappling group announced today is a 36-man outfit broken down into three squads. Included on the elite first team are nine wrestlers who reached the state finals this winter and three more who just missed.

There were only two repeaters, although one additional first unit representative stepped into the shoes occupied by his brother last year.

Final mat honor roll on page 5

Buffalo Grove made the strongest showing on the first team, nailing down four of the 12 slots. There were two more from Rolling Meadows and the other six positions were spread out.

The first team, indeed the entire overall group, is loaded with seniors. In contrast to this trend, a freshman was named to the top team for the first time.

And here they are:

JON GLUCK (Conant - 98) — The Cougar sophomore forged a dazzling 33-3-2 slate. A conference runnerup at 105, he annexed the Elgin district crown and placed third at Naperville's sectional.

AL BLOUNT (Schaumburg - 105) — The first freshman to annex a conference title, the scrappy Saxon was a sectional qualifier one class above his 98-pound certified weight. He finished his initial prep campaign at 23-3-2.

TIM FOLEY (Buffalo Grove - 112) — A conference and regional champion, the Bison junior notched a third at Barrington's sectional while completing the year with a nifty 28-5-1 mark.

JIM CARLSTROM (Rolling Meadows - 119) Brother of Roy Carlstrom, who was the all-star at this same weight in '75, senior Jim placed second in conference and qualified through district and sectional to gain a berth in the state finals. A third-team all-area pick last year, Jim wound up with a 34-6 slate.

DOUG McCARTHY (Fremd - 126) — The Viking senior rebounded from a third place conference windup to annex district and sectional crowns and then went on to place sixth in state en route to a 28-9 mark.

RICH WILHELM (Buffalo Grove - 132) — Making his second straight appearance downstate, and his second showing on the all-area first team, the Bison senior won 39 straight bouts this season and finished with a dazzling three-year career varsity record of 93-16.

GREG THOMSON (Buffalo Grove — 138) — A district champion at Highland Park, the Bison junior went on to qualify at Barrington's sectional and earn a berth in the state finals. He finished the season at 33-9.

DAN LOCOCO (Hersey - 145) — The honorary captain of the 1975-76 all-area team, this Husky senior wrestled at 132 pounds late in the season and scrapped his way to titles at the conference, district and sectional level. He then marched all the way into the state finals before being narrowly turned back by a defending state champion. He notched nine major and superior verdicts and seven pins while carding a 33-2 mark and over a three-season span owned an impressive 70-21-3 ledger.

DOUG BROWNING (Buffalo Grove - 155) — Up from the 1975 all-area third team, the Bison senior forged a 33-6-1 mark while placing second in conference and qualifying through district and sectional to compete in the state finals.

JIM THOMAS (Hoffman Estates - 167) — Half of his losses on the season were to the defending state champ at 155 and the Hawk senior dropped one of them by a slim one-point margin while finishing second at the Naperville Sectional. A conference and district titlist at 155, Thomas wound up at 36-4-1 including 12 pins.

TED TYK (Rolling Meadows - 186) — The Mustang senior harvested a district title and runnerup honors at West Leyden's sectional to gain a spot in the state finals, where he lost to the eventual runnerup. He finished the campaign with a 26-10-2 mark.

SCOTT ZETTEK (St. Viator-Heavyweight) — A two-time conference, district and sectional kingpin, the Lion senior makes his second appearance on the all-area first team as well. He placed fifth in state and carded a 32-3 slate with 14 of them won by fall.

Ask Andy

Planet Pluto always bitterly cold

Andy sends the Encyclopedia Britannica's Yearbook of Science and the Future to Sammy Williams, 12, of Charlotte, N.C., for his question:

HOW COLD IS PLUTO?

In Roman mythology, Pluto is the god of the underworld, a dark, cold region reserved for the dead. Pluto, the most recently discovered planet in our solar system, is named after this god. Perhaps those who were responsible for naming Pluto reasoned that the Roman god would be quite at home there, as Pluto the planet is thought to be very cold.

Our solar system is made up of the bright warming sun and all the bodies that travel around it. Besides our own planet earth, there are eight other planets. Mercury, Venus, Mars and Pluto are smaller than earth, while Saturn, Jupiter, Uranus and Neptune are much larger.

Pluto is a long way from us earthlings, and the farthest planet from the sun. Perhaps this explains why Pluto is so cold — around 360 degrees below zero. When you consider that the earth's lowest temperature is recorded at 129.9 below zero, you can readily appreciate how cold this is.

Pluto and earth have very little in common. Pluto's diameter is less than half that of the earth, and its very cold environment certainly would not support life as we know it. Compared to the 365 days our planet needs to orbit the sun, Pluto takes a whopping 348 years. And to make one complete rotation on its axis, Pluto needs about six earth-days. Although our planet has an atmosphere and a moon, Pluto has neither, as far as scientists can tell.

Since the discovery of Pluto in 1930 by C. W. Tombaugh at Lowell Observatory in Arizona, there has been much speculation about the origin and composition of the planet. Some astronomers believe it once was part of the planet Neptune, and that long ago something caused its mass to break away from Neptune and form an orbit of its own. In fact, Pluto's orbit at one point crosses within that of Neptune, but the two planets are in no danger of colliding.

To see Pluto, you need to look through a large telescope. Pluto's existence was suspected long before it was actually confirmed. Dr. Percival Lowell, founder and director of the Lowell Observatory, first calculated the possibility of a planet somewhere in the heavens where Pluto eventually was discovered. He searched many years, but unfortunately he died before Pluto was actually discovered.

If you left today in a space ship traveling 15,000 miles per hour, you would arrive on Pluto's chilly landing pad in about 20 years. When closest to the earth, Pluto is still about 2.7 billion miles from us. Considering this great distance, it's little wonder that remote Pluto has kept most of its secrets, even in this modern Space Age.

Andy sends a Student Globe to John Harris Jr., 12 of Hampton, Va., for his question:

WHAT IS TUNGSTEN USED FOR?

Tungsten is a hard, super-heavy, whitish-gray metal used in numerous things, many of which you have seen or used. In its pure form, this element is the champ for having the highest melting point of any metal — 6,100 degrees Fahrenheit. Although very brittle, it can be drawn into a fine wire. Both these qualities make tungsten ideal as a filament in light bulbs and cathodes in electron tubes. Surgical stitching materials and cross hairs in telescopes also contain this unique metal.

When tungsten is added to steel, the result is an extremely hard, efficient substance. Jet engines and high-speed cutting tools rely on tungsten steel to help them withstand extreme heat. Combine tungsten with carbon and you have a compound called tungsten carbide. This material, second only to diamonds in hardness, is used in dies, rock-crusher plates and bucket teeth on power shovels. Drill bits made with tungsten carbide have made it possible for oil men to drill wells three miles deep. Tungsten carbide tools cut five to six times faster than the best high-speed steel tools and last much longer.

Planet Pluto always bitterly cold

Andy sends the Encyclopedia Britannica's Yearbook of Science and the Future to Sammy Williams, 12, of Charlotte, N.C., for his question:

HOW COLD IS PLUTO?

In Roman mythology, Pluto is the god of the underworld, a dark, cold region reserved for the dead. Pluto, the most recently discovered planet in our solar system, is named after this god. Perhaps those who were responsible for naming Pluto reasoned that the Roman god would be quite at home there, as Pluto the planet is thought to be very cold.

Our solar system is made up of the bright warming sun and all the bodies that travel around it. Besides our own planet earth, there are eight other planets. Mercury, Venus, Mars and Pluto are smaller than earth, while Saturn, Jupiter, Uranus and Neptune are much larger.

Pluto is a long way from us earthlings, and the farthest planet from the sun. Perhaps this explains why Pluto is so cold — around 360 degrees below zero. When you consider that the earth's lowest temperature is recorded at 129.9 below zero, you can readily appreciate how cold this is.

Pluto and earth have very little in common. Pluto's diameter is less than half that of the earth, and its very cold environment certainly would not support life as we know it. Compared to the 365 days our planet needs to orbit the sun, Pluto takes a whopping 348 years. And to make one complete rotation on its axis, Pluto needs about six earth-days. Although our planet has an atmosphere and a moon, Pluto has neither, as far as scientists can tell.

Since the discovery of Pluto in 1930 by C. W. Tombaugh at Lowell Observatory in Arizona, there has been much speculation about the origin and composition of the planet. Some astronomers believe it once was part of the planet Neptune, and that long ago something caused its mass to break away from Neptune and form an orbit of its own. In fact, Pluto's orbit at one point crosses within that of Neptune, but the two planets are in no danger of colliding.

To see Pluto, you need to look through a large telescope. Pluto's existence was suspected long before it was actually confirmed. Dr. Percival Lowell, founder and director of the Lowell Observatory, first calculated the possibility of a planet somewhere in the heavens where Pluto eventually was discovered. He searched many years, but unfortunately he died before Pluto was actually discovered.

If you left today in a space ship traveling 15,000 miles per hour, you would arrive on Pluto's chilly landing pad in about 20 years. When closest to the earth, Pluto is still about 2.7 billion miles from us. Considering this great distance, it's little wonder that remote Pluto has kept most of its secrets, even in this modern Space Age.

Daring bid for Culbertson

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

The all-time giant of contract was Ely Culbertson. Although he was better at publicity than at bridge, he was one of the great innovators of bidding methods.

He was the first man to suggest that four notrump should be used to ask for aces. He invented the idea of the asking bid and of the grand-slam force.

He never liked to open a normal notrump bid and while the Culbertson system always included some notrump opening, when Ely opened one on his own it was apt to be almost anything except a normal notrump.

Today's hand shows one of his triumphs. He elected to open one notrimp with his five high-card points and seven-card diamond suit.

His partner raised him to three. Dummy's ace of spades won the first trick. Ely promptly led the queen of diamonds from dummy. East put on his king — it wouldn't have done him any good to play low and Ely rattled off his nine tricks. A mighty good result since East and West had a cinch game in spades.

The $125 million difference.

In 1975, our nuclear stations produced 35% of the power we generated, and saved our customers $125 million in fuel costs.

Power you can count on.

In the face of growing demands for electric power on one hand and the scarcity of low-sulfur fossil fuels on the other, Commonwealth Edison has continually increased the role of low-cost reliable nuclear energy in northern Illinois.

During 1975, our confidence in nuclear power was borne out. 35 percent of the kilowatthours we produced came from our seven nuclear units. During the hot summer months, when demand for electricity peaked, nuclear power accounted for nearly 40% of the total energy we produced—an extremely impressive performance during the most crucial part of the year. And just as importantly, this was accomplished at a cost much lower than would have been possible with coal- or oil-burning stations.

Power that saves you money.

Our nuclear power plants save money because the fuel they use is less expensive than the coal and oil burned in fossil fuel generators. Had we been forced to rely on low-sulfur western coal, the fuel bill alone for our customers in northern Illinois would have been $125 million higher. Substituting imported oil, fuel costs would have increased even more.

All costs included, we can produce a kilowatthour with our nuclear units for about 20% less than we could with low-sulfur coal at a coal-fired station.

Nuclear power is working for you.

The energy shortage we face today won't disappear overnight. But it is reassuring to know that, at a time when Americans are using more electricity, and the costs of fossil fuels are rising, we have a good alternative in nuclear energy. It's cheaper. It's cleaner. And because it uses uranium fuel, it actually helps to conserve the more scarce—and more expensive—fossil fuel resources, and makes America less dependent on foreign sources for energy.

Commonwealth Edison
Working for you.

Daring bid for Culbertson

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

The all-time giant of contract was Ely Culbertson. Although he was better at publicity than at bridge, he was one of the great innovators of bidding methods.

He was the first man to suggest that four notrump should be used to ask for aces. He invented the idea of the asking bid and of the grand-slam force.

He never liked to open a normal notrump bid and while the Culbertson system always included some notrump opening, when Ely opened one on his own it was apt to be almost anything except a normal notrump.

Today's hand shows one of his triumphs. He elected to open one notrimp with his five high-card points and seven-card diamond suit.

His partner raised him to three. Dummy's ace of spades won the first trick. Ely promptly led the queen of diamonds from dummy. East put on his king — it wouldn't have done him any good to play low and Ely rattled off his nine tricks. A mighty good result since East and West had a cinch game in spades.

LONG JOHN SILVER'S® BIG CATCH™ COMBINATIONS. 3 MIX AND MATCH MEALS THAT FEED 4 FOR $5.45

How's that, lovers of big meals at small prices? Long John Silver's announces three different, delicious ways to feed at least four hungry people, each at the same low price.

Here they are. Long John Silver's new Big Catch Combinations:

6 FISH FILLETS
4 ORDERS OF FRYES
1 LARGE KEG OF COLE SLAW

16 CHICKEN PEG LEGS
4 ORDERS OF FRYES
1 LARGE KEG OF COLE SLAW

8 CHICKEN PEG LEGS
AND 3 FISH FILLETS
4 ORDERS OF FRYES
1 LARGE KEG OF COLE SLAW

Think of it. With three Big Catch choices, you don't have to contend with anybody saying "I don't feel like eating this, or I don't feel like eating that!" Because now everybody can eat this or that. Or both.

And after you finish eating, the kids can still have fun. The Big Catch carry home package is a colorful treasure chest kids can use over and over to store their own treasures—like the free pirate souvenirs they get every time they come into Long John Silver's.

The $125 million difference.

In 1975, our nuclear stations produced 35% of the power we generated, and saved our customers $125 million in fuel costs.

Power you can count on.

In the face of growing demands for electric power on one hand and the scarcity of low-sulfur fossil fuels on the other, Commonwealth Edison has continually increased the role of low-cost reliable nuclear energy in northern Illinois.

During 1975, our confidence in nuclear power was borne out. 35 percent of the kilowatthours we produced came from our seven nuclear units. During the hot summer months, when demand for electricity peaked, nuclear power accounted for nearly 40% of the total energy we produced—an extremely impressive performance during the most crucial part of the year. And just as importantly, this was accomplished at a cost much lower than would have been possible with coal- or oil-burning stations.

Power that saves you money.

Our nuclear power plants save money because the fuel they use is less expensive than the coal and oil burned in fossil fuel generators. Had we been forced to rely on low-sulfur western coal, the fuel bill alone for our customers in northern Illinois would have been $125 million higher. Substituting imported oil, fuel costs would have increased even more.

All costs included, we can produce a kilowatthour with our nuclear units for about 20% less than we could with low-sulfur coal at a coal-fired station.

Nuclear power is working for you.

The energy shortage we face today won't disappear overnight. But it is reassuring to know that, at a time when Americans are using more electricity, and the costs of fossil fuels are rising, we have a good alternative in nuclear energy. It's cheaper. It's cleaner. And because it uses uranium fuel, it actually helps to conserve the more scarce—and more expensive—fossil fuel resources, and makes America less dependent on foreign sources for energy.

Commonwealth Edison
Working for you.

TV's story of Manson not for kids

by JOAN HANAUER

NEW YORK (UPI) — When the television networks thought up family viewing time, they certainly didn't have the Charles Manson family in mind.

There's no way to tone down the sex and violence in retelling the story of Manson, his "family" and the Sharon Tate-La Bianca murders, investigation and trial.

Here is the epitome of the television trend toward "actuality" dramas — the dramatic reproduction of actual events.

Thursday and Friday CBS will broadcast in two-hour segments a made-for-television movie adaptation of "Helter Skelter," the best-selling book by Vincent Bugliosi, special prosecutor at the murder trial of Manson and three girl members of his family. Co-author was Curt Gentry.

THE CBS VERSION, scheduled to air from 7 to 9 p.m., has been executied, if that's the word, as tastefully as the material will allow.

But there's no way to escape the almost oppressive overlay of kinky sex, orgies, and "love" so twisted that murder is its absolute expression.

The acting is uniformly excellent. George DiCenzo plays Bugliosi as a dedicated prosecutor, and who at times must speak directly to the audience, a novelty for many actors accustomed to the "fourth wall" concept of theater, in which the audience is presumed to be watching the action through an invisible or removed "fourth wall."

But the one who will steal the show is Steve Railsback as Manson — short with a disproportionately large head, eyes crafty, the ultimate con man who alternates between hypnotizing intensity and oily obsequiousness.

NANCY WOLFE also performs impressively as Susan Atkins. She looks a little like a young, sultry Ann Baxter, confiding to a jailmate, with the innocence of a schoolgirl confidence, the intmate details of her adventures in homicide.

Thre's no way to explain any of this to one's children, not to mention what they'll think of the "family" believing Manson was Jesus Christ. The parents who want to see "Helter Skelter" would be well advised to plan an outing for their youngsters — maybe treat the kids to some bowling.

In Los Angeles, where it all happened, the show will be blacked out. The CBS owned and operated station can't carry it because Bugliosi is running for office and his opponent in the Democratic primary could demand equal time. As a matter of fact, considering the poor showing of the Los Angeles police in Bugliosi's version, the LAPD might also demand equal time.

TV's story of Manson not for kids

by JOAN HANAUER

NEW YORK (UPI) — When the television networks thought up family viewing time, they certainly didn't have the Charles Manson family in mind.

There's no way to tone down the sex and violence in retelling the story of Manson, his "family" and the Sharon Tate-La Bianca murders, investigation and trial.

Here is the epitome of the television trend toward "actuality" dramas — the dramatic reproduction of actual events.

Thursday and Friday CBS will broadcast in two-hour segments a made-for-television movie adaptation of "Helter Skelter," the best-selling book by Vincent Bugliosi, special prosecutor at the murder trial of Manson and three girl members of his family. Co-author was Curt Gentry.

THE CBS VERSION, scheduled to air from 7 to 9 p.m., has been executied, if that's the word, as tastefully as the material will allow.

But there's no way to escape the almost oppressive overlay of kinky sex, orgies, and "love" so twisted that murder is its absolute expression.

The acting is uniformly excellent. George DiCenzo plays Bugliosi as a dedicated prosecutor, and who at times must speak directly to the audience, a novelty for many actors accustomed to the "fourth wall" concept of theater, in which the audience is presumed to be watching the action through an invisible or removed "fourth wall."

But the one who will steal the show is Steve Railsback as Manson — short with a disproportionately large head, eyes crafty, the ultimate con man who alternates between hypnotizing intensity and oily obsequiousness.

NANCY WOLFE also performs impressively as Susan Atkins. She looks a little like a young, sultry Ann Baxter, confiding to a jailmate, with the innocence of a schoolgirl confidence, the intmate details of her adventures in homicide.

Thre's no way to explain any of this to one's children, not to mention what they'll think of the "family" believing Manson was Jesus Christ. The parents who want to see "Helter Skelter" would be well advised to plan an outing for their youngsters — maybe treat the kids to some bowling.

In Los Angeles, where it all happened, the show will be blacked out. The CBS owned and operated station can't carry it because Bugliosi is running for office and his opponent in the Democratic primary could demand equal time. As a matter of fact, considering the poor showing of the Los Angeles police in Bugliosi's version, the LAPD might also demand equal time.
